WORLD TRIBUTE TO IKE

Eisenhower Funeral Schedule

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Military authorities Friday gave this detailed schedule of the Dwight D. Eisenhower funeral arrangements (all times approximate):

SATURDAY: Remains taken by hearse from Gawler's Funeral Home to Bethlehem Chapel at Washington National Cathedral, leaving at 10:45 a.m. EST and arriving at 11 a.m.

Marine Corps Band sounds ruffles and flourishes and plays "Hail to the Chief" and a hymn, and casket placed in cathedral; honor guard takes position; possibly brief service or prayer by clergyman.

Public allowed to file past casket (which remains closed throughout funeral) until some time Sunday.

SUNDAY: To ruffles and flourishes, "Hail to the Chief" and a hymn, casket is placed in hearse at 3 p.m. and taken to formation point of main funeral cortege, 16th Street and Constitution Avenue, N.W.

Casket transferred to caisson at 3:30 p.m. and procession leaves for U.S. Capitol. Twenty-one Air Force F-4s to fly over during procession.

Cortege arrives at Capitol at 4 p.m.; joint honor cordon of 61 men from each of armed services positioned on steps and casket taken to Capitol rotunda to lie in state.

President Nixon and Eisenhower family take places near catafalque at 4:05 p.m., and President gives eulogy and lays wreath at foot of casket. Public allowed to file past casket until 10:30 a.m. Monday.

MONDAY: At 4 p.m., cortege starts forming to go from Capitol to main chapel of National Cathedral, and arrives at 4:40 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Nixon and Eisenhower family take places in cathedral and funeral services begin, with catafalque in front of main altar.

Casket transferred to hearse and taken to Union Station, arriving at 5:30 p.m. accompanied by Nixons and Eisenhowers. Funeral train leaves for Abilene, Kan., at 6 p.m., and arrives "some time Wednesday."

WEDNESDAY: President and Mrs. Nixon leave Andrews Air Force Base, Md., at 7:45 a.m., arrive in Salina, Kan., at 9:30 a.m., CST, and then helicopter to Abilene at 9:55 a.m.

Cortege leaves funeral train for Eisenhower Library at 10:15 a.m., and services conducted on library steps at 10:50 a.m.

Nixons to leave Salina for Washington at 12:30 p.m. Remains interred in crypt under chapel on library grounds, where Eisenhower's first son, Dwight Doud, who died in infancy, is buried.

Lodging, Transport for LBJ, Truman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Blair House, the official presidential guest residence across the street from the White House, was being made available for former Presidents Lyndon B. Johnson and Harry S. Truman if they desire to come to the Eisenhower funeral.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Friday night Air Force planes were available for both former presidents if they desired it.

DAVID EISENHOWER, grandson of Dwight D. Eisenhower, leaves Washington's Walter Reed Army Medical Center with his wife, Julie, after the death of the former president Friday.

'A Great Soldier ... Loved by All'

United Press International

A great outpouring of tribute spread around the world Friday for former President Dwight David Eisenhower. President Charles de Gaulle of France led free Europe in mourning the death of his World War II ally and announced he would attend the funeral.

Eisenhower died at 9:25 a.m. PST Friday in Washington's Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

De Gaulle, in a message sent Mrs. Eisenhower from Paris, hailed Eisenhower as "a great soldier, an eminent statesman, a sincere friend of France and one for whom I had profound affection."

A SIMILAR expression of grief came from Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, Eisenhower's comrade-in-arms in 1944.

"He was an old friend, and I am very upset," Montgomery said in a voice shaking with grief. "All my old friends are dying."

One of Eisenhower's former Nazi opponents, Gen. Hasso Von Manteuffel, commander of German troops in the Battle of the Bulge, described Eisenhower as "an outstanding general and truly great man."

At the Vatican, a spokesman for Pope Paul VI said the pontiff was grieved at the death of Eisenhower and was praying for the repose of his soul.

Queen Elizabeth II of Britain said his death "will be keenly felt not only by all America but also by the people of Britain and the Commonwealth."

"He will always be warmly remembered here for his presence among us in the war years as a great soldier and leader of the Allied forces and later, especially during his two terms as president of the United States of America, for his statesmanship," the queen said.

IN COPENHAGEN, Danish Prime Minister Hilmar Baunsgaard said "we will not only remember Gen. Eisenhower as a great war leader and statesman, but also for his considerable human qualifications and his straightforwardness."

Belgian Premier Gaston Eyskens sent a telegram to Mrs. Eisenhower saying he was "deeply grieved by the cruel loss which befalls you." Eyskens also said "all free peoples, all free citizens, have the feeling today they have lost a friend."

Italian President Giuseppe Saragat said the death of Eisenhower was a blow to the world. He called the former president a "great soldier and a great citizen."

"The United States has lost a great soldier and important president," said an official statement by the White House.

NIXON also dispatched a two-paragraph statement formally notifying Congress of the loss of "a great leader, a great friend and a great man."

and a proclamation naming Monday as a national day of mourning and ordering flags flown at half-staff on all federal buildings and military installations at home and abroad for the next 30 days.

Nixon learned of the death while at his desk in the oval office with Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. The two men had just emerged from a Na-

Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democratic Party.

In a condolence telegram to President Nixon, Kiesinger said "we honor the memory of this great American who after the Second World War was indefatigably working for the safeguarding of peace and freedom in the world and who in pursuing these great goals had furthered close and confident cooperation between our two peoples."

WEST BERLIN Mayor Klaus Schuetz said "West Berlin will never forget" Eisenhower. He added "the turning into friendship of German-American relations was completed" during his presidency.

In Warsaw, the news of the general's death was carried, as an urgent news item by the Polish news agency PAP. A former Polish army officer commented, "The world has lost one of the great soldiers of our time."

Another British reaction to Eisenhower's death came from Lord Louis Mountbatten of Burma who said "a very great soldier and statesman has died." The commander of the Allied forces in the Far East during World War II added "General Eisenhower earned the complete trust of all his British colleagues and the loyalty and indeed the devotion of the forces who served under him during the war."

The blue and white flag of the United Nations was lowered to half staff at U.N. headquarters in New York a short time after Eisenhower's death was announced.

A Moscow Radio newscast carried the first word to the Soviet people of Eisenhower's death. This was a one-sentence item without comment.

THE 34TH president of the United States, hero general of World War II and beloved "Ike" to millions of admirers around the world, died in peace Friday after a 13-year battle against heart disease. He was 78.

Construction Work

Q. I'm trying to find out where I can get a magazine called The Constructor. It's a building construction trade magazine, and since I'm an unemployed construction worker I'd like to check on big jobs going on around the country. D.B., Lakewood.

A. The Constructor, published by the Association of General Contractor of America, can be obtained for 50 cents a copy from the association's office at 957 E. St. N.W., Washington, D.C. The monthly magazine, which has a circulation of 20,000, is headed by publisher William E. Dunn. Annual subscription rate is $5. Although the Long Beach Public Library does not carry this magazine, it carries more than 80 others and will locate the address of any magazine published today.

Make Change

Q. I'm having a problem with an insurance company. I am elderly and in poor health. I am getting my affairs in order. My daughter — who is beneficiary of my burial insurance policy — has agreed with me that my mortuary should be made chief beneficiary. I have asked my insurance company in Des Moines, Iowa, to make this change, but they keep insisting that they need my policy. All I want is confirmation that the beneficiary change has been made. Mrs. M.M., Long Beach.

A. An acknowledgment of the beneficiary change is on the way to you, according to Robert Canard of Homesteaders Life in Des Moines. Because of a change in company procedure, he said, it is no longer necessary for you to send in your policy. He said an initial acknowledgment of the change was sent to you about three months ago, "but we didn't follow it up when we didn't receive the policy back." Your mortuary is now listed as chief beneficiary, with your daughter named as contingent beneficiary.

Wired and Tired

Q. I have ordered flowers through Florists Transworld Delivery which sends flowers by wire, and several times these arrangements have arrived wilted or stale. Is there an address where people can write to complain when they receive flowers by wire that are not fresh? I've gotten no satisfaction from the florists. Mrs. A.T.C., Gardena.

A. William Gode of the customer relations department of Florist's Transworld Delivery advised you to direct your complaint to his department which will investigate. The address is 900 W. Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Mich. 48209. Florist's Telegraph Delivery maintains a test order program where once a year they place fictitious orders with each member florist and then check the quality of the display when it is delivered.

Charity Report

Q. Is there any governmental agency which supervises charities from which we could get a report about a particular charity? We are especially interested in learning about the Christian Children's Fund which sponsors children overseas. W.D., Long Beach.

A. The Federal Advisory Committee on Voluntary Aid supervises the activities of some 75 charities which provide overseas aid. The committee has financial and program reports on the Christian Children's Fund which operates orphanages in 56 countries and the United States. You can obtain information by writing Howard S. Kresge, Advisory Committee on Voluntary Foreign Aid, Agency for International Development, New State Building, Room 2485, Washington, D.C. 20523. For further information on all charities operating in the state of California, except religious organizations, educational institutions and hospitals, write the Registry of Charitable Trusts, California Department of Justice, 923 12th St., Sacramento, Calif. 95814. For information on charities soliciting donations in unincorporated areas of Los Angeles County, contact the Los Angeles County Public Welfare Commission, New Hall of Records, 320 W. Temple St., Room 1165, Los Angeles, Calif. 90012. Normally, each city has its own charity solicitation ordinance. The city of Los Angeles investigates and regulates charities through the Los Angeles Social Service Department, 200 N. Spring St., Los Angeles. The city of Long Beach regulates charities through the detective bureau, Long Beach Police Department, 400 W. Broadway.

Unpolluted

Q. In the March issue of Reader's Digest, I read of a small, inexpensive machine that would clear and purify the air in the room in which it was placed. Where can I obtain additional information on this device? C.A., Seal Beach.

A. The editorial correspondence section of Reader's Digest listed three companies that handle such purifiers and could give you additional information. The products and their manufacturers: "Micron Air", Dome Laboratories, West Haven, Conn. 06590; "Honeywell Electronic Air Cleaner", Minneapolis-Honeywell, 1185 Douglas Dr., Minneapolis, Minn. 55408; and "Triple Density Filter", Allergy Free Products, 1162 W. Lynn St., Springfield, Mo. 65800.

Wounded Take News Silently

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The general died as he might have wished it—in a military hospital close by fighting men of another war.

The troops, including casualties of Vietnam, were sitting garbed in blue pajamas and robes as Gen. Frederic Hughes Jr. entered the Red Cross building at Walter Reed Hospital Friday.

The card games stopped. So did the click of billiard balls in the recreation hall.

Gen. Hughes wiped his eyes as he approached the stage. A hush settled over the room. Then came the announcement. Dwight D. Eisenhower was dead.

EISENHOWER had won fame in a war these young lions knew from their fathers' souvenirs and memories.

Names like Tunisia, Normandy, El Alamein, Bastogne, were found in history books.

They knew different names like Da Nang, the DMZ, Con Thien.

Their war, Eisenhower himself once said, was so complex that he himself would not have felt competent commanding the U.S. forces.

Shortly before the announced time of the general's death—12:25 p.m. EST—the chimes of the hospital chapel sounded

OFFICES CLOSED FOR MOURNING

All city, county, state and federal government offices will be closed Monday, official day of mourning for former President Eisenhower.

California State College at Long Beach administrative offices and library also will be closed. The business office will be open briefly at 3 p.m. to distribute paychecks; as previously scheduled, CSLB classes are closed for the regular spring holiday.

In Long Beach, as in most other cities, emergency municipal services will be provided and commercial garbage will be picked up on schedule, officials said.

Residential refuse collection will run one day later than usual schedule throughout the week.

Three Presidents Eulogize General

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Nixon led the nation in mourning Friday for former President Eisenhower, describing him as a wise and decent man "who spoke with a moral authority seldom equaled in American public life."

The President issued three separate tributes to the man who, above all others, was responsible for Nixon's own rise to the incomparable powers of the presidency.

"He was a man of great strength, wisdom and compassion. But it always seemed to me that two qualities stood out above all in both his public and private life: one was an unwavering sense of duty; the other was that whatever he did, he did because he believed it was right."

NIXON also dispatched a two-paragraph statement formally notifying Congress of the loss of "a great leader, a great friend and a great man."

The message said: "Our landings in the Cherbourg-Havre area have failed to gain a satisfactory foothold and I have withdrawn the troops. My decision to attack at this time and place was based upon the best information available."

The message was filed away after the landing succeeded, Nixon said, "but that was a man ready to take the consequences of decision. That was Eisenhower."

Eisenhower—a Man Who Stood by Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In recalling Friday what kind of man Dwight D. Eisenhower was, President Nixon cited a statement the general had prepared in case the Allied invasion of Europe in World War II had failed.

The message said: "Our landings in the Cherbourg-Havre area have failed to gain a satisfactory foothold and I have withdrawn the troops. My decision to attack at this time and place was based upon the best information available."

"The troops, the Air and Navy did all that bravery and devotion to duty could do. If any blame or fault attached to the attempt it is mine alone."

The message was filed away after the landing succeeded, Nixon said, "but that was a man ready to take the consequences of decision. That was Eisenhower."

Yanks, Reds Battle Outside Saigon

Combined News Services

SAIGON, Saturday — American troops and tanks battled Communists for almost three hours Friday within six miles of downtown Saigon in one of a series of clashes throughout Vietnam, U.S. spokesmen reported today. Communist gunners continued their nightly rocket and mortar barrages, hitting at least 15 allied bases and South Vietnamese towns late Friday and early today. Communist terrorists also planted two explosive charges Friday at a restaurant in Truc Giang, 35 miles southwest of Saigon, and mined a bus near Quang Ngai about 300 miles northeast of the capital. The explosions in the restaurant killed five civilians and wounded 21 others. Three civilians were killed and three others injured when the mine shattered the bus. Among the U.S. installations hit during the shelling were the 25th Infantry Division camp near Tay Ninh, 55 miles northwest of Saigon, and the Bien Hoa Airbase 15 miles northwest of the capital. Military spokesmen described casualties in all shelling attacks as light.

Chinese Launch New Border Attack

MOSCOW — Communist Chinese troops along the Ussuri River frontier have launched new attacks on Soviet border guards, it was reported Friday. The Communist Party newspaper Pravda also said the Chinese were building a military post a short distance from Damansky Island, scene of two bloody battles earlier this month. The report was the first mention of new incidents along the border area in nine days, and said the Chinese threw "several mortars on Damansky" and a Chinese patrol "penetrated on the island." No date was given. "They were stopped by our fire," the communique said.

Pope Paul Names 35 New Cardinals

VATICAN CITY — Pope Paul VI Friday named 35 new cardinals, including four U.S. prelates, in a move that raised the College of Cardinals' membership to a record 136. Names of two of the cardinals appointed were kept secret. It was generally assumed that these men were from Communist countries who might be endangered if their identities were revealed. The cardinals will be officially installed April 28. The new American cardinals are: Bishop John Joseph Wright, 59, of Pittsburgh; Archbishop Terence James Cooke, 48, of New York; Archbishop John F. Dearden, 61, of Detroit; and Archbishop John J. Carberry, 64, of St. Louis.

Turkey Quakes Kill 53, Injure 100

ISTANBUL — Two strong earthquakes struck western Turkey Friday, wrecking at least two villages and leaving 53 dead and more than 100 injured. Reports from the region said boiling water gushed from cracks in the earth in several districts. Roads sank, hampering relief work. Hardest hit were Alasehir, with a population of 5,000, and Sarigot, a smaller town, and the surrounding areas about 80 and 90 miles east of the Aegean port of Izmir. More than 2,500 buildings, including scores of village schools and mosques, collapsed or were seriously damaged, reports said.

U.N. Debates Mideast Crisis

JERUSALEM — Jerusalem police, apparently fearing a violent outburst, broke up a group of about 350 Arab women participating in a funeral procession Friday for an Arab who died in an Israeli jail. On the diplomatic front, the U.N. Security Council debated the Mideast crisis on the second day of a session demanded by Jordan to condemn Israel for an air raid Wednesday which allegedly killed 18 Jordanian civilians. Britain urged Jordan not to split the council and jeopardize the start of Big Four talks on the crisis by forcing a vote on the Israeli air attack. In another development, political sources in Jerusalem said Israel's ruling Labor Party was faced with an open split involving a leadership struggle between Premier Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

Nigerian Attack 'in Honor' of Wilson

UNUABIA — Military sources said Friday that Nigerian troops launched a heavy attack on Biafran positions in all sectors to coincide with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson's visit to the federal capital of Lagos. The sources said positions attacked included Afikpo, Ahoosa, Abu Abagana, and Onitsha sectors. Biafran troops have maintained their positions, they added. Wilson arrived in Lagos Thursday.

$29 Million Settles Midair-Crash Suits

NEW YORK — Two airlines and the federal government paid $29 million to settle suits stemming from the deaths of 136 persons in the collision of two commercial planes over New York City eight years ago. The amount of the damages was disclosed Friday when U.S. Dist. Judge Matthew Abruzzo signed an order unsealing records on 128 suits in the case. The only suit Abruzzo threw out was that of the widow of one of the pilots. The Federal Aviation Administration said that the pilot was 11 miles off his station when the collision occurred.

The crash happened in fog, snow and rain the afternoon of Dec. 16, 1960. The United Airlines' DC-8 jet, carrying 84 persons, and the Trans World Airlines' Constellation carrying 44 persons, were circling when they collided over Staten Island. All passengers and crew died and eight people were killed on the ground. The largest award in the $29 million was $750,000.

Nixon Invokes 'Executive Privilege'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has set down a policy for involving the doctrine of "executive privilege" — withholding information from Congress. As did Presidents Johnson and Kennedy, Nixon has officially declared that he will be the only man in the government with the authority to exercise that power. Nixon dispatched a memorandum to all department and agency heads on March 24 prescribing the methods when — if ever — his administration would invoke the doctrine. Presidents have based their "executive privilege" to deny Congress information on a clause in the Constitution which states that "he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed." A chief executive is thus able to maintain that he cannot properly carry out his duties if he divulges a specific piece of information.

Laird Orders Religious Policy Review

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird ordered a high-level Pentagon review Friday of Army plans to eliminate reference to God and religious philosophy in character guidance courses given to soldiers. The new Army policy, drawn up after a complaint last year by the American Civil Liberties Union, angered some members of Congress. The ACLU claimed that the lectures were being used as religious indoctrination. Laird said Friday he had just learned about the Army's planned revisions and he wants the matter examined more closely before any action is taken.

Two Members of Pueblo Crew Re-Enlist

SAN DIEGO — Two crewmen from the seized intelligence ship Pueblo re-enlisted Friday, the first to do so since the Pueblo's capture. Photographers Mate First Class Lawrence W. Mack, 35, of San Diego, re-enlisted for six years, and Signalman First Class Wendell Leach, 26, of Houston, Tex. re-enlisted for four years. "I think the Navy is the greatest organization in the world," Mack said. "It's a great way of life." He added, "The skipper (Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher) is a terrific man and I would gladly serve with him again — anytime, anywhere." Leach said that as a result of the Pueblo seizure he is now more aware "of the nature of Communism and why we must fight for our country."

'Unclean Hands' Charged in Chicago Suit

CHICAGO — Defense attorneys objected strenuously Friday to the Justice Department's entering a suit that charges Chicago Negroes were overcharged by about $60 million for homes in white or changing neighborhoods. They charged that policies of the FHA contributed to alleged discrimination against Negro home buyers and said the government was entering the case with "unclean hands." The Justice Department, represented by U.S. Atty. Thomas A. Foran, asked and received permission to enter as a friend of the court a suit which accused more than 50 defendants of overcharging Negroes as much as $20,000 each for new and used homes.

4 Mutineers Get Lighter Sentences

FT. LEWIS — An Army court-martial board Friday handed down sentences of from nine months to six years for four soldiers convicted of mutiny in connection with a sit-down strike last October at the Presidio stockade in San Francisco. The sentences were the lightest handed down yet in the series of mutiny trials. Four other soldiers convicted earlier in San Francisco received terms of from two to 16 years in prison.

Johnson's Days Busy

Combined News Services

With the first anniversary of a dramatic 1968 political event fast approaching Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson said emphatically Friday her husband has "absolutely no regrets" he renounced the presidency of the United States.

"That's one of the things I am sure of," the former First Lady said in a telephone interview while she briefly visited Washington. "I am certain he has no regrets." On Monday, it will have been a year since Johnson startled the world by announcing he would bow out of political life in the interests of peace in Vietnam.

Mrs. Johnson took animatedly of the former president's busy days as gentleman rancher at his ranch in Texas and his post-White House paperwork load that piles up at his federal office building in Austin. "He's just full of projects," said Mrs. Johnson. She also reported her husband has cut down his weight by dieting and swimming once or twice a day.

She reported that the biggest tension for the family is waiting through the days before their daughter's husbands, Airman Patrick J. Nugent and Marine Maj. Charles S. Robb, wind up their tours of duty at Vietnam war fronts. Nugent is expected to be mustered out around April 11. Robb will be in Vietnam about a month longer, returning some time in May. Mrs. Johnson stopped in Washington en route from a New York shopping trip back to Texas.

MOWBRAY RITES

Show business friends paid their last respects Friday to actor Alan Mowbray, who died Tuesday after a brief illness. Mowbray, 72, was eulogized by actor-writer Allan Herscholt during a 15-minute funeral at St. Thomas Episcopal Church. He was buried at Holy Cross cemetery.

Condemned slayer Lester Morford III, who was scheduled to die in the Nevada gas chamber April 1, was granted a stay of execution Friday. Morford was accused of the murder of Jack Foster of Medford, Ore., in 1962.

Would Prohibit State Withholding

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, introduced a proposed constitutional amendment Friday to prohibit the withholding of personal state income taxes. Richardson also introduced a proposed constitutional amendment requiring a two-thirds vote of the Legislature to impose any state tax.

Remodel Old Hall of Justice for Sheriff

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — An architectural contract for the $15-million remodeling of the old hall of justice will be considered Tuesday by county supervisors.

County chief administrative officer Lindon S. Hollinger reported that the building will be modernized to serve as a central administrative headquarters for the sheriff's department.

A parking lot for 550 cars is also planned.

Architect Adrian Wilson and Associates will receive a $126,525 fee for the initial phase of the planning.

'The man from the paper' is a teacher for boys in a class by themselves

Your newspaperboy manages a business of his own. And that's why having a newspaper route can be so important to a boy. He earns his own money on the route, and he learns the basics of doing business. He buys his papers from us, he sells them to you. He is salesman, deliveryman, collector, and bookkeeper.

Yet while he has a business of his own, he is not entirely "on his own." The man from the paper is there—in his corner with friendly counsel and guidance. He knows boys and he makes his career working with boys. He also knows business methods—the ways in which a boy can make a success on his route. These he passes on to the boy. He is a teacher and the class he conducts is for boys "in a class by themselves".

If you think it would be worthwhile for your son to acquire the valuable lessons that come with newspaper route management, phone or write us today—

ISTANBUL — Two strong earthquakes struck western Turkey Friday, wrecking at least two villages and leaving 53 dead and more than 100 injured. Reports from the region said boiling water gushed from cracks in the earth in several districts. Roads sank, hampering relief work. Hardest hit were Alasehir, with a population of 5,000, and Sarigol, a smaller town, and the surrounding areas about 80 and 90 miles east of the Aegean port of Izmir. More than 2,500 buildings, including scores of village schools and mosques, collapsed or were seriously damaged, reports said.

U.N. Debates Mideast Crisis

JERUSALEM — Jerusalem police, apparently fearing a violent outburst, broke up a group of about 350 Arab women participating in a funeral procession Friday for an Arab who died in an Israeli jail. On the diplomatic front, the U.N. Security Council debated the Mideast crisis on the second day of a session demanded by Jordan to condemn Israel for an air raid Wednesday which allegedly killed 18 Jordanian civilians. Britain urged Jordan not to split the council and jeopardize the start of Big Four talks on the crisis by forcing a vote on the Israeli air attack. In another development, political sources in Jerusalem said Israel's ruling Labor Party was faced with an open split involving a leadership struggle between Premier Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

Nigerian Attack 'in Honor' of Wilson

UMUAHIA — Military sources said Friday that Nigerian troops launched a heavy attack on Biafran positions in all sectors to coincide with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson's visit to the federal capital of Lagos. The sources said positions attacked included Afikpo, Ahoia, Aba Abagana, and Onitsha sectors. Biafran troops have maintained their positions, they added. Wilson arrived in Lagos Thursday.

$29 Million Settles Midair-Crash Suits

NEW YORK — Two airlines and the federal government paid $29 million to settle suits stemming from the deaths of 136 persons in the collision of two commercial planes over New York City eight years ago. The amount of the damages was disclosed Friday when U.S. Dist. Judge Matthew Abruzzo signed an order unsealing records on 128 suits in the case. The only suit Abruzzo threw out was that of the widow of one of the pilots. The Federal Aviation Administration said that the pilot was 11 miles off his station when the collision occurred.

The crash happened in fog, snow and rain the afternoon of Dec. 16, 1960. The United Airlines' DC-8 jet, carrying 84 persons, and the Trans World Airlines' Constellation carrying 44 persons, were circling when they collided over Staten Island. All passengers and crew died and eight people were killed on the ground. The largest award in the $29 million was $750,000.

Nixon Invokes 'Executive Privilege'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has set down a policy for involving the doctrine of "executive privilege" — withholding information from Congress. As did Presidents Johnson and Kennedy, Nixon has officially declared that he will be the only man in the government with the authority to exercise that power. Nixon dispatched a memorandum to all department and agency heads on March 24 prescribing the methods when — if ever — his administration would invoke the doctrine. Presidents have based their "executive privilege" to deny Congress information on a clause in the Constitution which states that "he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed." A chief executive is thus able to maintain that he cannot properly carry out his duties if he divulges a specific piece of information.

Laird Orders Religious Policy Review

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird ordered a high-level Pentagon review Friday of Army plans to eliminate reference to God and religious philosophy in character guidance courses given to soldiers. The new Army policy, drawn up after a complaint last year by the American Civil Liberties Union, angered some members of Congress. The ACLU claimed that the lectures were being used as religious indoctrination. Laird said Friday he had just learned about the Army's planned revisions and he wants the matter examined more closely before any action is taken.

Two Members of Pueblo Crew Re-Enlist

SAN DIEGO — Two crewmen from the seized intelligence ship Pueblo re-enlisted Friday, the first to do so since the Pueblo's capture. Photographers Mate-First Class Lawrence W. Mack, 35, of San Diego, re-enlisted for six years, and Signalman First Class Wendell Leach, 26, of Houston, Tex. re-enlisted for four years. "I think the Navy is the greatest organization in the world," Mack said. "It's a great way of life." He added, "The skipper (Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher) is a terrific man and I would gladly serve with him again — anytime, anywhere." Leach said that as a result of the Pueblo seizure he is now more aware "of the nature of Communism and why we must fight for our country."

'Unclean Hands' Charged in Chicago Suit

CHICAGO — Defense attorneys objected strenuously Friday to the Justice Department's entering a suit that charges Chicago Negroes were overcharged by about $60 million for homes in white or changing neighborhoods. They charged that policies of the FHA contributed to alleged discrimination against Negro home buyers and said the government was entering the case with "unclean hands." The Justice Department, represented by U.S. Atty. Thomas A. Foran, asked and received permission to enter as a friend of the court a suit which accused more than 50 defendants of overcharging Negroes as much as $20,000 each for new and used homes.

4 Mutineers Get Lighter Sentences

FT. LEWIS — An Army court-martial board Friday handed down sentences of from nine months to six years for four soldiers convicted of mutiny in connection with a sit-down strike last October at the Presidio stockade in San Francisco. The sentences were the lightest handed down yet in the series of mutiny trials. Four other soldiers convicted earlier in San Francisco received terms of from two to 16 years in prison.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Johnson's Days Busy

Combined News Services

With the first anniversary of a dramatic 1968 political event fast approaching Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson said emphatically Friday her husband has "absolutely no regrets" he renounced the presidency of the United States.

"That's one of the things I am sure of," the former First Lady said in a telephone interview while she briefly visited Washington. "I am certain he has no regrets." On Monday, it will have been a year since Johnson startled the world by announcing he would bow out of political life in the interests of peace in Vietnam.

Mrs. Johnson took animatedly of the former president's busy days as gentleman rancher at his ranch in Texas and his post-White House paperwork load that piles up at his federal office building in Austin. "He's just full of projects," said Mrs. Johnson. She also reported her husband has cut down his weight by dieting and swimming once or twice a day.

She reported that the biggest tension for the family is waiting through the days before their daughter's husbands, Airman Patrick J. Nugent and Marine Maj. Charles S. Robb, wind up their tours of duty at Vietnam war fronts. Nugent is expected to be mustered out around April 11. Robb will be in Vietnam about a month longer, returning some time in May. Mrs. Johnson stopped in Washington en route from a New York shopping trip back to Texas.

MOWBRAY RITES

Show business friends paid their last respects Friday to actor Alan Mowbray, who died last Tuesday after a brief illness. Mowbray, 72, was eulogized by actor-writer Allan Herscholt during a 15-minute funeral at St. Thomas Episcopal Church. He was buried at Holy Cross cemetery.

MINDSZENTY 77

Jozsef Cardinal Mindszenty, Roman Catholic primate of Hungary, observed his 77th birthday Friday in the U.S. Embassy where he has remained in asylum since the Hungarian revolution in November 1956. An embassy spokesman said the cardinal is in good health.

ZSA ZSA GABOR

Actress Zsa Zsa Gabor has been summoned to stand trial in Palma de Mallorca, Spain April 10 for "illegal resistance" to the Spanish police and for slapping a policeman, court sources said Friday. The alleged incidents were said to have occurred on Miss Gabor's visit last winter.

SEERESS DIES

Mrs. Elizabeth Steen, 29-year-old Spokane seeress who had predicted an earthquake for California next month, died Friday in Deaconess Hospital in Spokane.

GREAT DAY

Friday, said Cardinal-designate John J. Carberry of St. Louis, is a "great day for the Irish." All four American prelates elevated to the cardinalate are sons of Erin, he noted with a wink.

GETS STAY

Condemned slayer Lester Morford III, who was scheduled to die in the Nevada gas chamber April 1, was granted a stay of execution Friday. Morford was accused of the murder of Jack Foster of Medford, Ore., in 1962.

Would Prohibit State Withholding

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, introduced a proposed constitutional amendment Friday to prohibit the withholding of personal state income taxes.

Richardson also introduced a proposed constitutional amendment requiring a two-thirds vote of the Legislature to impose any state tax.

Remodel Old Hall of Justice for Sheriff

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — An architectural contract for the $15-million remodeling of the old hall of justice will be considered Tuesday by county supervisors.

County chief administrative officer Linton S. Hollinger reported that the building will be modernized to serve as a central administrative headquarters for the sheriff's department.

A parking lot for 550 cars is also planned.

Architect Adrian Wilson and Associates will receive a $126,525 fee for the initial phase of the planning.

'The man from the paper' is a teacher for boys in a class by themselves

Your newspaperboy manages a business of his own. And that's why having a newspaper route can be so important to a boy. He earns his own money on the route, and he learns the basics of doing business. He buys his papers from us, he sells them to you. He is salesman, deliveryman, collector, and bookkeeper.

Yet while he has a business of his own, he is not entirely "on his own". The man from the paper is there—in his corner with friendly counsel and guidance. He knows boys and he makes his career working with boys. He also knows business methods—the ways in which a boy can make a success on his route. These he passes on to the boy. He is a teacher and the class he conducts is for boys "in a class by themselves".

If you think it would be worthwhile for your son to acquire the valuable lessons that come with newspaper route management, phone or write us today—

Sirhan Not Hypnotized When Writing of Plan

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

A handwriting expert testified Friday that Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was not under hypnosis when he wrote of his plan to kill Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The testimony cut a swath through the defense contention that Sirhan was in a "dissociate state" — a trance brought on by self-hypnosis — when he wrote about killing the New York senator and when he did it.

HANDWRITING expert Laurence Sloan, a member of the district attorney's office, said that after examining Sirhan's handwriting while under hypnosis in his jail cell and the handwriting in his controversial notebooks, "they in no way compare."

"The notebook writing," the soft-spoken witness said, "in my opinion were not done under the state of hypnosis... there is not qualitative breakdown in the notebook writings as there is in the hypnotic writing."

(Sirhan was hypnotized by chief defense psychiatrist Dr. Bernard Diamond and told to write answers to questions. Dr. Diamond testified earlier that Sirhan was in a "trance" both when he shot Kennedy and when he wrote that he would do so.)

The prosecution's "trump card" USC psychiatry professor Dr. Seymour Pollack followed Sloan to the stand and in slow, scholarly tones began telling his views of Sirhan.

PRECEDING his remarks by telling jurors that psychological tests "by themselves aren't to be taken as positive proof of anything," he said his interviews, discussions and work on the case have brought him to one conclusion:

"Sirhan developed into a young man with what is called a paranoid personality — a person who has a certain outlook on life and who to that extent is mentally ill."

"I believe," the doctor added, "his assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was motivated by political reasoning... highly emotionally charged."

Then slowly, deliberately, he painted a picture for the jury of Sirhan's life in the Middle East — but the painting contained less "trauma and war" than the one described by the defense psychiatrist.

Sirhan, Dr. Pollack said, was a frightened, terrified young boy... horrified by bombings and with death and dismemberment. But, he added, it was the same thing other members of the Sirhan family "or any other member of the Arab community" went through.

"AND," HE SAID softly, "there was no indication by Sirhan, himself, or his mother, that he was more frightened than the other children. There is no evidence of peculiar behavior... there was no change in his state of consciousness, and after being frightened, he would get over it and return to school or play."

"Bombings were not an everyday occurrence," the doctor said, "and Sirhan developed into a much stronger person than the others believe him to be." The experience, however, the doctor said, left its mark, and Sirhan developed into a tense, fearful, and a little superstitious person with a little tendency to live within himself.

"But these are not very significant paranoid features... no significant symptoms of severe character deviation."

WHEN SIRHAN arrived in the United States in 1956 he was a "good, obedient, superficially conforming person with an underlying feeling of anger and resentment," Dr. Pollack said.

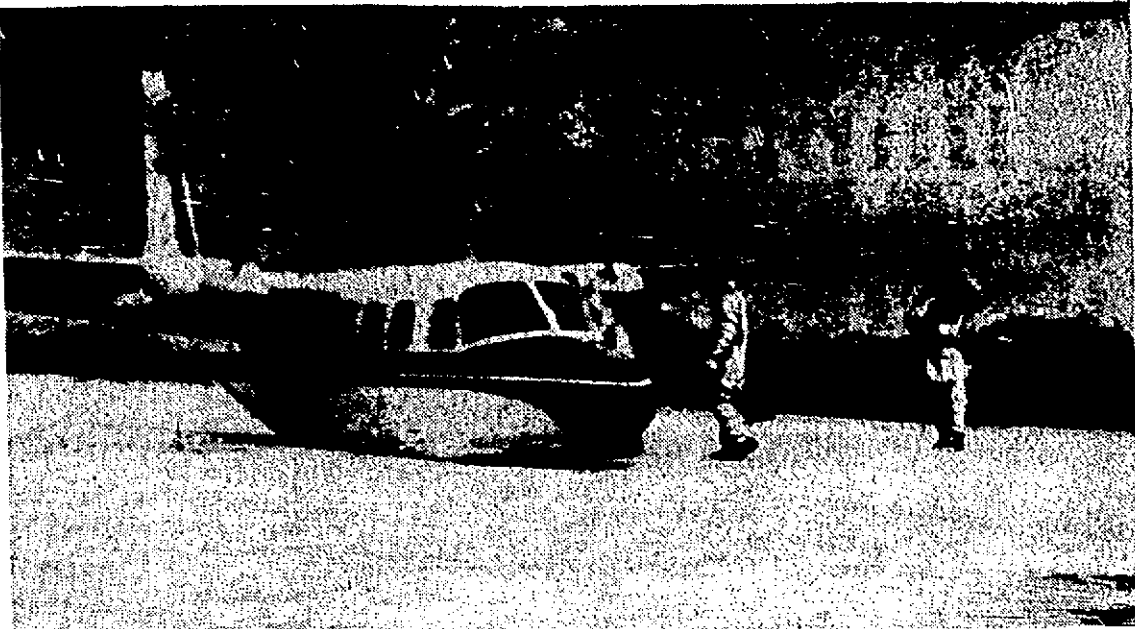

"He had allied himself with the Arab cause and couldn't understand why God could allow these things to happen. But he was eager to find acceptance in the United States. It was the country his mother had pictured to him as the 'world of tomorrow'... filled with promise."

"In junior and senior high school, however, he developed a strong feeling of social and racial prejudices... he identified himself with the Mexican-Americans, the Negroes and the poor people... he identified with them because he felt they were persecuted against."

Pollack's testimony will continue when court reconvenes Tuesday.

EARLIER, three police officers, with Sirhan in the early hours of June 5, took the stand to testify he showed "no signs of intoxication." One of the officers, Sgt. Frank Patchett, a detective at Ramparts St. station, where Sirhan was taken immediately following his arrest, quoted Sirhan as answering "hell no" to the question of whether he was ashamed to give his name because of what he had done.

Meanwhile, now a five-woman seven-man jury will decide the fate of the young Jordanian assassin. Miss Ruth Stillman, a telephone company employee, replaced Lawrence Morgan, an IBM engineer, on the panel. Morgan, rushed to Santa Monica Hospital, Thursday night with a bleeding ulcer, will remain at the hospital "at least two days."

LOOK, MA — NO WHEELS!

Eight fire companies—five from Long Beach, three from Douglas Aircraft—gathered at Long Beach Airport Friday evening to foam 300 yards of runway after this Aero Grand Commander reported to control tower it had lost a wheel and would attempt a "no wheels" belly slide. The plane, owned by McCulloch Properties, 2735 E. Spring St., was piloted by Charles Case and contained seven other persons. For an hour, the plane circled the airport using up fuel as the eight companies, commanded by Asst. Long Beach Fire Chief Arthur Radin, spread the 30,000 gallons of foam on Runway 25-Right. Fire officials said Case made "a beautiful landing, leaving asbestos-clad emergency team with little to do. None aboard the plane was injured."

Unattended Teens: Catch That Last Boat or Plane

By BILL MAYER
From Our L.A. Bureau

The traditional Easter Week teen invasion of Catalina Island could be a "bad scene" for some.

Sheriff Peter Pitchess warned any juveniles who try to stay overnight in Avalon without parents or guardians will be in trouble.

The teen visitor who is on his own, Pitchess said, had better not miss the last plane or boat heading back to the mainland.

"He or she is automatically in violation of the law," the sheriff said.

Six Retail Locals OK New Pacts

By CHARLES SUTTON
Staff Writer

Supermarket employees of six Retail Clerks' locals in Long Beach, Orange County and other parts of Southern California have approved a new contract giving them 60 cents an hour over three years, plus 13 cents an hour in fringe benefits.

The agreement with the "outer six," as they're called, was reached with the Food Employers Council, but does not cover clerks and boxboys in Los Angeles, San Diego and Santa Barbara, for whom separate negotiations are being conducted.

Union leaders for the three locals that haven't settled said their members will continue to work without a contract pending continued negotiations and a review of the "outer six" agreement — thus easing, for the time being, the threat of a strike in Los Angeles, San Diego and Santa Barbara. Their contract expires at midnight Monday.

EASTER WEEK is, by long custom, the beginning of the holiday season at Catalina. The tourist population shoots upward, and most of those who go are juveniles — in fact, through the summer months, their numbers increase from 200 to something more than 2,000. The situation is further complicated this year by a split vacation period — different times for certain schools — which extends the period over two weeks.

"There must be proper adult supervision," Pitchess said. "Unfortunately, many parents and juveniles are not aware of the laws which govern the City of Avalon and Catalina Island," he added, warning parental consent was not enough to allow teens to stay.

To make sure this ignorance does not persist among the visitors, the sheriff is going to post printed signs at each point of embarkation and debarkation. They will be visible going to and coming from Catalina.

THEY WILL STRESS

five points:

— An Avalon city ordinance prohibits renting rooms to unchaperoned juveniles.

— Those under 18 who stay overnight without proper supervision are subject to arrest.

— It is against the law to trespass or sleep on private property without permission.

— A county ordinance forbids staying overnight on public beaches.

— A city ordinance imposes a curfew.

Bill Seeks Tax Relief for Damage

From Our L.A. Bureau

County Assessor Phil Watson is sponsoring a state measure to grant tax relief on damaged property even though it is not in a disaster area.

Watson said a bill to put such a proposition on the ballot will be introduced by Assemblyman Joe Gonsalves. If it gets through the legislature, it will go to the voters in the next statewide election.

Now only those properties hit by major calamities are eligible for reduced assessments. There has to be a huge flood or fire, with large territory destroyed, and the governor must name the scene officially a disaster area.

Mystery surrounding a rash of church fires in the Hawthorne-Lawndale-Gardena area appeared solved Friday with the arrest by Gardena police of a 16-year-old corrections camp escapee after a $100,000 blaze at the First Christian Church, 14803 S. Halldale Ave.

The youth was arrested near his home in Gardena after a fire fueled by the torn pages of hymn books was started near the altar area of the church.

Arrest of the Camp Scudder escapee, whose identity was not revealed, by police because he is a juvenile, climaxed investigations into three other South Bay area church fires which arson investigators said were started in the same manner.

The first fire destroyed the Seventh-day Adventist Church, 1939 W. Compton Blvd., Hawthorne, last Saturday afternoon.

That fire caused an estimated $250,000 damage and was followed the next day by a $10,000 blaze at the Church of Christ, 4585 W. El Segundo Blvd., Hawthorne.

The Adventist Christian Church, 15331 S. Prairie Ave., Lawndale, was struck by a $10,000 fire Monday night, and was followed by the Gardena blaze Thursday night.

Police said the youth was arrested a short time after the Gardena fire and that he was booked on arson charges pending further juvenile court action.

Sirhan Kin Faces Hearing Thursday

Sharif Sirhan, the 28-year-old brother of admitted assassin Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, was free on $125 bail today after his arrest on suspicion of disturbing the peace in a Pasadena hospital.

He was arrested early Friday morning after allegedly becoming unruly during a physician's examination of his brother, Saidallah, 36, who was in hospital after being struck by an auto near his Pasadena home a few hours earlier.

"He just blew his cork, that's all," a Pasadena police spokesman said. "After his brother's accident he was emotionally agitated and went to the hospital... he wanted some answers to questions and wanted to look at Saidallah."

Witnesses said he began pulling bedclothes from his brother's bed and swiping his fists wildly.

Sharif posted the $125 bond. Arraignment is set for Thursday in Pasadena Municipal Court.

Meanwhile, Saidallah, whose mother left the murder trial of her 25-year-old son for the first time to be at the bedside, was reported in serious condition with a fractured skull and broken right leg. He was transferred to Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center.

GOLD NIGHTMARE

Survivors Relate Horror, Heroism

By DICK EMERY
Staff Writer

Nightmares come in all colors.

"It seemed as if I was running in a world of gold. Everything was gold, like fire."

"My hair was burning, my clothes were smoking. The four of us were running. I thought, 'I am on fire! I am burning!'"

"The fire ball was extending over us like a golden umbrella!"

Not a nightmare — it was real, for Dr. Paul Goodley, 37, a Wilmington physician and reserve sheriff's deputy, and for the three other men he remembers running with him to escape Thursday night's explosion at the Fletcher Oil and Refinery Co. at Main Street and Lomita Boulevard, on the northwest boundary of Wilmington.

DR. GOODLEY TOLD of his experience while receiving medical care Friday for blistered arms, neck and ears, at Bay Harbor Hospital, Harbor City, where he is a staff physician.

"We had gone into the refinery yard to look for anyone injured in the original explosion," he said. "We were retreating. We knew no one still in there could be alive."

"Then came this terrible sound, like a monster belching. I'm a pilot — and when I looked up at the fireball I thought, 'It's 500 feet above me.' But it extended out to the perimeter of my vision — the whole sky turned to gold and we were running through gold and on fire."

In hospital waiting rooms and at their homes, many other persons told Friday of fearful close-calls with death from the searing sky-blast.

NEIGHBORS along Lomita Boulevard, in the block lying south of the refinery and most exposed to the heat, agreed the heroine of their neighborhood was Mrs. Rose Villa, a middle-age housewife

Damage at the Fletcher Oil and Refinery Co. plant in Carson has been fixed at $1 million, company officials said Friday. One person was killed and 58 injured.

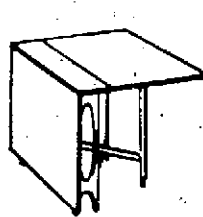

who tends five foster children at her home, 136 West Lomita Blvd.

The children were saved from serious burns.

Mrs. Villa was deeply and painfully burned across the back, neck, arms and legs. She was under medical care Friday, one of "15 or 20" burned patients treated by the burned and bandaged Dr. Goodley, at his nearby clinic at 1717 Wilmington Blvd.

Sharif posted the $125 bond. Arraignment is set for Thursday in Pasadena Municipal Court.

Meanwhile, Saidallah, whose mother left the murder trial of her 25-year-old son for the first time to be at the bedside, was reported in serious condition with a fractured skull and broken right leg. He was transferred to Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center.

GOLD NIGHTMARE

Survivors Relate Horror, Heroism

By DICK EMERY

Nightmares come in all colors.

"It seemed as if I was running in a world of gold. Everything was gold like fire."

"My hair was burning . . . my clothes were smoking. The four of us were running. I thought, 'I am on fire! I am burning!'"

"The fire ball was extending over us like a golden umbrella!"

Not a nightmare — it was real, for Dr. Paul Goodley, 37, a Wilmington physician and reserve sheriff's deputy, and for the three other men he remembers running with him to escape Thursday night's explosion at the Fletcher Oil and Refinery Co. at Main Street and Lomita Boulevard, on the northwest boundary of Wilmington.

DR. GOODLEY TOLD of his experience while receiving medical care Friday for blistered arms, neck and ears, at Bay Harbor Hospital, Harbor City, where he is a staff physician.

"We had gone into the refinery yard to look for anyone injured in the original explosion," he said.

"We were retreating. We knew no one still in there could be alive."

"Then came this terrible sound, like a monster helching. I'm a pilot — and when I looked up at the fireball I thought, 'It's 500 feet above me.' But it extended out to the perimeter of my vision — the whole sky turned to gold and we were running through gold and on fire."

In hospital waiting rooms and at their homes, many other persons told Friday of fearful close-calls with death from the searing sky-blast.

NEIGHBORS along Lomita Boulevard, in the block lying south of the refinery and most exposed to the heat, agreed the heroine of their neighborhood was Mrs. Rose Villa, a middle-age housewife who tends five foster children at her home, 136 West Lomita Blvd.

One by one, Mrs. Villa lifted her five pre-school-age charges over a backyard fence, to comparative safety in its shelter, as spectators were stampeding in panic around her.

The children were saved from serious burns.

Mrs. Villa was deeply and painfully burned across the back, neck, arms and legs. She was under medical care Friday, one of "15 or 20" burned patients treated by the burned and bandaged Dr. Goodley, at his nearby clinic at 1717 Wilmington Blvd.

Ike's 'Simple Eloquence' Touched U.S.

'I Like Ike' a National Sentiment

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — From the day he entered West Point as a pledge to the day he left the White House 50 years later, Dwight David Eisenhower achieved personal popularity seldom matched in America. His grin and folksy nickname were his hallmarks.

There was a simple plain man's eloquence about Eisenhower that touched Americans. He had no flair as an orator, little sophisticated wit, and no flamboyance.

But "I Like Ike" was a national sentiment — so much so that the Democratic and Republican parties both sought to make him president, even while his political persuasion was unknown.

HE WAS the only Republican president in a generation. And his party controlled the House of Representatives for only two of his eight years in office, yet he rolled up majorities matched previously only by Franklin D. Roosevelt in his first two terms.

He was a career soldier who called war "this damnable thing," who said he hoped to see "people in my profession permanently put out of a job."

It was characteristic of Ike that in his speech to the 1968 Republican National Convention — piped to the delegates from his hospital room — he subordinated politics to a plea for "traveling the pathways of peace, with honor and justice."

Peace, and Honor. The words surfaced again and again in a brilliant career that was a succession of peaks with few valleys: general of the Army, allied commander in chief for North Africa, commanding general of Allied powers in the European theater, chief of staff of the Army, president of Columbia University, two terms as President of the United States. Always he spoke of the strength of America. "Let us first remind ourselves of the greatness of this nation and its people," he told the Republican convention. "Let's not waste time this year searching out someone to blame, even though some seem more disposed to concede rather than to stand firmly for America."

LESS THAN 12 hours after he spoke, Eisenhower was stricken with his third heart attack of the year — the sixth one since 1955. He was unable to watch the convention on television, but was told that Richard M. Nixon, his vice president, had been chosen as the Republicans' 1968 standard bearer.

"I am delighted," were the words relayed from the hospital room.

"You know I am an honorary delegate and could I have been there and voted, then the total number of votes for Nixon would have been 693 instead of 692."

He had endorsed Nixon shortly before the convention started, the first time Eisenhower had used his Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who succumbed after a heart attack Friday, is pictured in two victorious phases of his life. At left in 1945 he gave the 'V' for victory sign during Kansas City welcome on his triumphant return to U.S. following an Allied prestige publicly to attempt to influence the party's choice of a nominee.

Nixon responded in his acceptance speech by declaring: "Let's win this one for Ike!"

The 34th President of the United States was the third of the seven sons of David and Ida Stover Eisenhower. One of Ike's brothers, Paul, died in infancy; the others were successes in their own right: Arthur, a banker; Edgar, a lawyer; Earl, an electrical engineer; Milton, a government official and college president; and Roy, a druggist.

Their grandfather traveled west with the wagon trains in 1878 and settled near Abilene, Kan. Their father failed with his general store and moved his family to Denison, Tex., where Dwight was born Oct. 14, 1890. A year later the family returned to Abilene and the father took a job in a creamery.

YOUNG Eisenhower graduated 61st in a class of 164 from West Point in 1915. As a lieutenant at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., he met Denver girl Mamie Geneva Doud at a party. They were married July 1, 1916. A son, Dwight Doud, born a year later, died of scarlet fever at 3. A second son, John Sheldon Doud, followed his father to West Point.

In the 1930s, then Maj. Eisenhower accompanied Gen. Douglas MacArthur to the Philippines. Early in World War II, he came to the attention of Gen. George C. Marshall, the Army chief of staff, who summoned Eisenhower to Washington. Ike was sent to London to make recommendations about the organization and development of American forces in Europe. To his surprise, he was named to the European Theater command with orders to execute his own plan.

Eisenhower first headed the expeditionary force to North Africa in 1942 and early the next year was made commander in chief of all Allied forces in the North African campaign.

In 1943, Eisenhower was named Allied commander for the invasion of Europe. D-Day came on June 6, 1944.

He directed the Allied forces to victory over Germany and presided over surrender ceremonies. Soon after, he returned to Washington to become Army chief of staff, holding the post until 1948 when he became president of Columbia University.

But President Harry S. Truman summoned him to Washington to serve temporarily as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Later he took a longer leave of absence to organize and command North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces.

THE AFFECTION the nation felt for Ike paid off in the 1952 election. He had a plurality of more than 6.5 million votes over Democrat Adlai Stevenson, carrying 39 of the 48 states. He did even better in his 1956 re-election, topping Stevenson by 9.5 million votes.

The Korean War was ended by an armistice in Eisenhower's first term after a dramatic visit to South Korea before his inauguration.

It was in the Eisenhower years that both the United States and Russia developed hydrogen bombs, engaging in a grim race for superiority. It was also the time when the Space Age dawned with unmanned satellites. Man traveled under atomic power under the sea for the first time.

In 1954 the Supreme Court declared the segregation of schools to be unconstitutional.

Three years later, Eisenhower became the first president since Reconstruction to use federal troops to enforce a court order — the integration of schools in Little Rock, Ark.

The United States, under Eisenhower, severed relations with Cuba after Fidel Castro's revolution, but it did not support the Hungarian uprising.

THE EISENHOWER DAYS

Temper, Charm, Ike Had 'em Both

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the 1952 presidential campaign, Dwight D. Eisenhower was running like a fire engine. The Republicans publicly and many Democrats privately could see nothing but an Eisenhower victory over Adlai E. Stevenson.

We were flying over South Dakota and I asked Ike if he shared the view of his fellow GOP leaders that victory was assured.

"Oh, no," he protested. "Nothing ever is in the bag until it is definitely won. I do believe this — the people of this country genuinely want a change. I think they're tired of the way the Democrats have been running the government. I think they want the Republicans to have a chance at things now."

THIS IS essentially what he told the 1968 Republican presidential candidate and his former vice president, Richard M. Nixon, earlier this summer.

Professionals of both parties did not regard Eisenhower as any great shakes of a politician. He knew how they felt — and he thought they were wrong.

"You don't get to be Army chief of staff and a five-star general without being a damned good politician," he once told me.

At a White House party one night when returns were coming in from a special election, his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, and I received word that the candidate whom Eisenhower had endorsed publicly had been defeated badly.

Simultaneously, Jim and I gave him what we thought was the bad news.

Ike merely shrugged his shoulders.

"Although the fellow was a Republican, he deserved to lose," he said. "He tried to get into office on my coattails with nothing else to commend him. The voters of his state sized him up pretty well."

Despite his political self-credit, Eisenhower still was less than ecstatic about being exposed to politicians in mass. This involved being nice to a large number of people whose conversation he frequently found boring or, at best, tedious.

One of his closer friends and his secretary of treasury, George Humphrey, said "he hits the peak of his charm when he's in a group of from 15 to 20 people — or at a bridge table. He can really turn it on."

The more I saw of Eisenhower from the inside, usually on trips, as compared with his formal facade and stilted speeches, the more I was impressed by the diversity of his personality.

He had the reputation for a terrible temper. People who worked for him for years, however, never saw it. Others did see it almost as a cloud of blue smoke. In such a mood, he seldom roared profanity, but the anger came out in icy, tart sentences. Sometimes anger made his face grow pale. Other times, he would get beet red. The latter usually reflected frustration.

HIS STAFF had a way of bracing for stormy weather. He usually came to his White House office about 7:30 a.m., even on Sundays when he was in Washington. The inside staff — his personal secretary, Mrs. Ann C. Whitman, and his appointment secretary, Thomas E. Stephens — would peer through curtains as he walked from the White House proper to the West Wing offices.

If he wore a particular brown suit, they prepared for a difficult day. The word would pass to other offices, "It's a brown-suit day."

Some contemporary historians and political critics — and at times it was hard to tell the difference — tried to make Eisenhower out a boob, a virtual illiterate, a political dummy. Truly, he was none of these things.

HERO HOME FROM WAR

General Eisenhower chatted with his mother, Mrs. Ida Eisenhower, on the front porch of her home in Abilene, Kansas, on June 23, 1945. The general was recently back from Europe after the Allied victory weeks before.

Eisenhower was, indeed, no innovator in the manner of a Franklin D. Roosevelt, but history will show that he gave America much of what it wanted in the days following the Korean War and about 20 years of Democratic rule — A father figure, a war hero and above all, a stabilizing figure of great dignity.

Former President Harry S. Truman said prior to the 1952 campaign that "Ike doesn't know whether he is a Republican or a Democrat." In a sense, this was true as far as party label was concerned. He voted for Roosevelt in 1944 over Republican Thomas E. Dewey. Ike, of course, was Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, at the time. But 1944 was the only time in his life he voted until he, himself, ran for office in 1952.

He may not always have been a Republican by label, but he was one at heart. He was criticized in office for the time he spent with rich men, industrialists, leaders of the monied community. Another source of criticism was the amount of time he spent at recreation.

MOST OF the reporters around him learned more about what made Eisenhower tick from seeing him on the golf course, fishing for trout in the Rockies and shooting quail in South Georgia than they learned from many of his official actions and formal statements.

He taught me dry fly fishing, as patiently as a nursery school teacher helping a toddler to walk. It was an amazing experience, being coached by the President of the United States and then sharing with some Secret Service agents fresh rainbow trout he had caught from a Colorado stream and cooked superbly. Ike would not touch a mouthful of his own fish until everyone had been served.

Another time in South Georgia, he gave me holy Hell — and there's no other way of expressing it accurately — for firing my shotgun at quail too quickly. I hit the bird at rather close range and as feathers flew, Eisenhower exclaimed loudly, "now you've gone and ruined a perfectly good bird!"

Eisenhower lived as long as he did after his 1955 heart attack largely because of his military training. Dr. Paul Dudley White, the noted Boston cardiologist, said Eisenhower was one of the best patients he had ever treated.

What impressed White and Dr. Thomas Mattingly, another heart specialist who treated Eisenhower for years, was the precise and uncompromising way in which Ike followed orders.

THE GENERAL stuck to prescribed diets meticulously and took exactly the amount of exercise ordered. Furthermore, he knew from the start of his heart trouble that eventually all the disciplined medical behavior would not save him; tional Security Council meeting.

The President summoned his wife, his daughter Tricia and five associates — Laird; press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler; Secretary of State William P. Rogers; legislative assistant Bryce Harlow, who had served President Eisenhower in the White House, and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, advisers on national security affairs.

The group then rushed to Walter Reed Army Hospital. Nixon spent a half-hour with members of the general's family on the third floor of the hospital's east wing.

In mid-afternoon, accompanied by a single aide, he flew to the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., where Eisenhower had spent many weekends during his eight years as president.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson issued the following statement Friday following Eisenhower's death:

"A giant of our age is gone. Dwight David Eisenhower began his service to his people as a soldier of war. He ended as a crusader for peace. For both he will be long remembered by a scarred but hopeful world — a world that loved him well. The sturdy and enduring virtues — honor, courage, integrity, decency — all found eloquent expression in the life of this good man and noble leader.

"I WAS PROUD to serve him when he was President, I respected him as a wise and valued counselor during my own days in the White House. I treasured him always as my close and lasting friend.

"His death leaves an empty place in my heart as it will in the hearts of men and women everywhere. America will be a lonely land without him but America will always be a better nation — stronger, safer, more conscious of its heritage, more certain of its destiny — because Ike was with us when America needed him.

"In this sad hour, Mrs. Johnson and I join with people the world over in expressing to Mrs. Eisenhower and her family our profound sympathy."

were near his side. The hospital said, "His passing was peaceful and he experienced no distress."

President Nixon declared Monday a national day of mourning and ordered the U.S. flag flown at half-staff for 30 days in honor of the man he said "spoke with a moral authority seldom equaled in American public life."

His eyes red and his jaw set grimly, Nixon took his family to Walter Reed to pay his respects to the family of the man he served for eight years as vice president. His daughter Julie, David Eisenhower's wife, already was there.

About four hours after Eisenhower's death, the White House announced that the President and Mrs. Nixon would attend funeral services Monday in Washington and the burial Wednesday at the Eisenhower Library and Museum in Abilene.

THE ARMY announced plans for a state funeral in Washington. Eisenhower's body will lie in repose Saturday in Washington National Cathedral until Sunday afternoon, when it will be carried to the Capitol Rotunda to lie in state. On Monday afternoon, it will be returned to the Cathedral for a funeral service.

After the service, Eisenhower's remains will be borne by train to his boyhood home of Abilene, Kan., for burial Wednesday at the Eisenhower Museum and Library.

The end came quietly for the warrior with the famous grin who led Allied forces to victory against the Nazis in Europe and then won two terms in the White House, in 1952 and 1956, by popular vote margins unequalled in size by any presidential candidate before his time.

Eisenhower had suffered seven heart attacks, the first on Sept. 24, 1955, toward the end of his first term as President and the seventh last Aug. 16.

After the seventh heart attack, he subsequently underwent high-risk surgery for removal of an intestinal obstruction and developed pneumonia in his right lung.

Nearly two weeks ago, doctors discovered the congestive heart failure and from then on it was clear that Eisenhower's remarkable recuperative powers had at last failed him.

Nixon was notified of the former president's death by his own personal physician, Dr. Walter Tkach, one minute after it occurred. He was in his White House office conferring with Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird at the time.

NIXON canceled all engagements for the next five days, including a state visit by Australian Prime Minister John Gorton Tuesday and Wednesday. This visit probably will be rescheduled.

The President said in a statement the nation had lost "a great leader, a great friend and a great man . . . a symbol of decency and hope."

Eisenhower was born Oct. 14, 1890, at Denison, Tex., one of seven sons of David Jacob and Ida Elizabeth Stover Eisenhower, and grew up in Abilene. He won his Army commission at West Point in 1915 and was assigned to Ft. Sam Houston in Texas.

As a young officer he met and married Mamie Geneva Doud. He moved swiftly through the grades, serving in the Philippines and Panama. He never saw combat in World War I, but in 1942 as a relatively unknown lieutenant general, he was chosen by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to command Allied forces landing in North Africa.

The next year, he was made supreme commander of Allied Expeditionary Forces and planned the Normandy invasion of June 6, 1944. Later that year he was awarded his fifth star. (His death leaves Omar Bradley as the nation's only living general of the Army.)

THE POPULARITY he won in wartime helped him in national politics, which he entered as a Republican after a brief term as president of Columbia University.

In 1952 he defeated Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic heir to Truman, by 442 to 89 electoral votes. He won re-election in 1956 by an even greater margin—over Stevenson—457 to 73 electoral votes. His popular votes both years were the largest margin of victory of any presidential candidate until the Johnson landslide of 1964.

After he left the White House in early 1961, Eisenhower spent much of his time at his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., or on golfing vacations in California. He wrote frequently on public affairs, even while at Walter Reed, and addressed last summer's Republican National Convention in Miami Beach by television from his hospital suite.

Words of Praise From Both Parties

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — California congressmen of both parties Friday mourned the passing of Gen. Eisenhower. Their eulogies:

Sen. George Murphy, R. — "This soldier-statesman not only guided us from bloodshed to peace, but from domestic uncertainty to order."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D. — "His warning against the military-industrial complex will be remembered by historians as his most remarkable contribution to the peace and freedom and security of the country he loved so well."

Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Montebello, dean of the Democratic delegation — "He was a leader of great courage and ability in time of war and a dedicated public servant in time of peace."

Rep. Glenard Lipscomb, R-Alhambra, chairman of the Republican delegation — "Ike's life and achievements and the principles

'FOUGHT LIKE HERO HE WAS'

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — "He couldn't go on forever beating the Grim Reaper but he fought back like the typical hero that he was."

This comment by J. Earl Endacott, a long-time personal friend, summed up Friday the reaction of Dwight D. Eisenhower's boyhood hometown that the former president and Army general was dead.

Endacott is curator of the Eisenhower Museum where more than 7,000 of Eisenhower's personal gifts, mementos and souvenirs are housed and displayed.

Flags were lowered immediately to half staff.

The Belle Springs Creamery, where Ike worked as a boy, prepared to hang black crepe over the door. "We felt this was one way of paying our respects," said manager Paul Hoffman.

Mayor Delton B. Hadel made public an "Abilene Regrets" resolution which said in part:

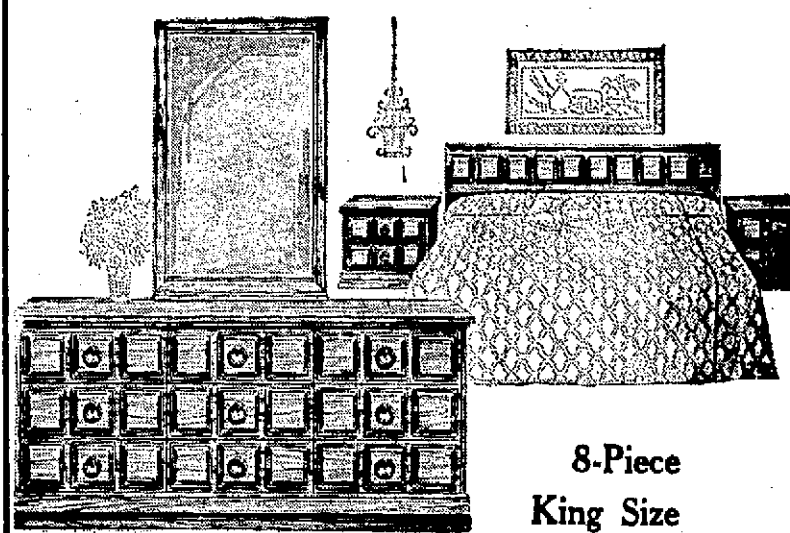

"Whereas, it has pleased almighty God in His divine providence to remove from us by death Dwight D. Eisenhower, boyhood resident of Abilene, be it resolved that the governing body of the city of Abilene give expression, both personally and as representatives of all the citizens of Abilene, to our deep feelings and heartfelt sorrow that overwhelm us on the occasion of his death."

Black Studies Program Wins Nod at CSLB

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

A proposed black studies program for California State College at Long Beach won formal approval Friday for inclusion in 1969-70 courses.

The green light from the full 10-member all-college curriculum committee reversed a stand voted less than 24 hours earlier by the same faculty group.

Final approval came at the end of a committee meeting moved into the campus Little Theater so some 50 interested black students could attend and participate. Only a single negative voice vote was recorded.

The comprehensive, so-called "package program" was first presented to the committee Thursday by Dean Hiden T. Cox, whose school of letters and science has administrative control of a new black studies department.

A member who asked not to be identified said the initial vote — 4-2 against approval, with three absences and chairman Orval Dillingham abstaining — possibly resulted from a misunderstanding involving two recommended courses.

The two titled "Exploitation of the Black Athlete" and "Preparation of Soul Food," originally were classified as "experimental" or nonregular courses.

By majority vote Friday these were reclassified into a regular program, the members said, paving a way for final approval.

APPROVED FOR listing in an upcoming 1969-70 college catalog are 18 courses to be offered this fall, plus 10 to be taught for the first time in 1970.

Five subjects now given by such departments as comparative literature, sociology and anthropology will be transferred to the new department's jurisdiction.

A sampling of never-before-taught classes: Black Reality, Psychology of the Afro-American, Twentieth Century Revolution in the Third World, Psychological Needs of the Ghetto Child.

Organization of a black studies department and curriculum has been far from easy at CSLB.

When President Carl W. McIntosh announced Jan. 10 a department would be functioning next fall there were protests from Black Students Union leaders and members. Their repeatedly stated aim was to create an autonomous department in which faculty and courses would be entirely selected by the students.

On Feb. 10, Dr. Clyde Taylor, an assistant professor of English long active in such Negro self-help movements as Upward Bound, was named acting chairman of an embryonic ethnic studies department.

Office space was contributed by the fine arts school, and Taylor, with BSU counsel, began drafting a program. His recommendations largely were incorporated into the final, now-approved program, officials say.

High among problems still to be overcome is recruiting a specialized faculty. College observers note a growing demand for teachers competent to deal with a multitude of newly-organized subjects. CSLB, they say, will be competing with many other area institutions for the services of a handful.

Cox anticipates at least 60 students a semester will be enrolled in programs leading to a black studies certificate, a major or minor in the subject or in taking free electives. The program is open to all, regardless of race.

Tiny Viet Heart Patient Recovered

Tiny "Suzie," the 2-year-old Vietnamese girl who underwent corrective surgery for a congenital heart defect — after a Navy doctor's successful campaign to bring her to Children's Hospital of Orange County — will be released Tuesday.

The girl, Nguyen Thi Thanh Phuong, "has fully recovered from open heart surgery performed last Jan. 10," a hospital spokesman said Friday.

The youngster's recovery was complicated by a serious infection, which has since cleared up.

Nguyen, nicknamed Suzie by nurses, will complete her recuperation at the home of one of the hospital's service volunteers.

Suzie leaves for Saigon April 14th to be reunited with her mother, Le Thi Lan, 22, and father, Nguyen Kinh, a team leader in South Vietnam's army.

Mrs. Le accompanied Suzie to the United States four months ago but returned to South Vietnam recently to care for a young son.

The mercy trip for Suzie was arranged by Navy Lt. Douglas Henning, who examined the girl while on a civic action mission to her home village, near Da Nang.

Henning's wife, Mrs. Linda Henning, of Santa Ana, a registered nurse at the hospital, worked to complete final arrangements to bring Nguyen to the United States for the delicate operation.

College Housing Aid Plan Backed

A proposal that the city establish a program to help minority-group families find housing "in the area of their choice" has been endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce and the Advisory Board of California State College at Long Beach.

The proposal was made by the Citizens Advisory Committee for Community Improvement, and the City Council asked the city manager's office for a review and report of the plan.

John L. Barrett, president of the Chamber of Commerce, advised the council by letter Friday the chamber's executive council voted to endorse the CACCI proposal.

The college advisory board action was reported to the council by letter by Frank Bowman, CSLB director of housing.

California and 19th largest campus in the nation.

The resolution also noted the local college has improved the quality of life and increased the lifetime earning power of its graduates by many millions of dollars, as well as making an "enormous" contribution to Long Beach's "educational, social, cultural and economic well-being."

"This growth has continued without interruption because the community, the college administration, the faculty and the students have worked out their problems in an atmosphere of reason and mutual trust," the resolution read.

The task will be easier if the city provides an off-campus environment "conducive to economic growth," but such an environment can be disturbed by housing discrimination, it warned.

'L.B. WASTELAND' Landlords Hit Condemnations

By WALT MURRAY

City officials are turning Long Beach into a "wasteland" by condemning hundreds of pre-1933 buildings, leaders of a property owners group charged Friday night during a meeting at Wilson High School.

"If they dropped a bomb on Long Beach, it wouldn't take out as many buildings," chairman Larry Schwartz said. "The city council is going nuts — they're like a bunch of kids on a Disneyland ride."

Leaders of the group got approval for a three-point action program against the city from nearly all the 150 persons present at the United Property Owners Association meeting.

THE ASSOCIATION plans to confront the City Council April 22 to ask reconsideration of the condemnation program. If reconsideration is denied the association plans to hire an attorney to research the "validity" of the city's action. Then they may bring lawsuits against the city, Schwartz explained.

The city's building department has recently stepped up enforcement of a 1959 ordinance requiring owners to bring their brick and masonry buildings up to current "earthquake-proof" standards or tear them down.

"The city's action will make Long Beach a disaster area by condemning 1,100 to 3,000 buildings worth at least $10 million," Schwartz said.

He said 350 to 400 buildings — most of them in the downtown area — have already been condemned, but at least 1,100 more face condemnation.

"Not one person here could live with his conscience if his building fell down and killed someone," Schwartz said. "But if the city is so concerned, why did they wait until now to start enforcing the law? Why are they enforcing it on such a hit or miss basis?"

Schwartz, who said he didn't want to "make any accusations," charged there "might be a little intrigue" in the city program.

"ALMOST ALL OF THE BUILDINGS condemned are in the downtown area, and you could conclude they want more downtown parking lots, or want to do face-lifting for the Queen Mary."

As an alternate program, the association plans to ask the city to survey all city buildings that may violate "earthquake-proofing" ordinances, and meanwhile cease condemnation proceedings.

Then, leaders of the association say, the city manager's office should estimate how much money required building improvements will cost.

The city council should then set up a finance committee to help owners finance repairs and should supply compensation to owners who must have their buildings torn down.

L.B. Airline Plans Bay Area Service

By HERB SHANNON

Aero Commuter-Catalina Airlines, now serving a network of Southern California communities from its Long Beach headquarters, will fly routes in the northern part of the state next week.

Fred L. Austin, Aero Commuter president, Friday said the airline will take over some routes presently operated by Skymark Airlines of Sacramento "within a few days."

Skymark's commuter service links San Francisco Bay area airports and some cities in central California. The airline earlier this week announced it would suspend service soon because of financial problems.

I, P-T to Offer Views of School Board Hopfuls

A summary of views of candidates on key questions affecting the Long Beach Unified School District board will be presented on the editorial page of Sunday's Independent Press-Telegram.

Their views were brought out by a questionnaire from the League of Women Voters and are offered as guidance for the electorate.

Don't miss this timely feature — in the Sunday edition of the I, P-T.

AUSTIN SAID AERO Commuter has agreed to operate some of Skymark's routes and hire a number of its personnel while the upstate airline arranges new financing or seeks a merger.

A Skymark spokesman said the airline will become, in effect, the northern division of Aero Commuter, but Austin said the Long Beach firm has not yet entered into merger negotiations.

Aero Commuter recently acquired the Southern California routes formerly operated by Cable Commuter Airlines and Golden West Airlines. Since last year the Long Beach firm also has held a majority interest in Los Angeles Airways, only other commuter in the field.

Formerly owned by Westgate-California Corp. of San Diego, Aero Commuter was sold earlier to Continental Western Corp., a privately-held Missouri firm with previous Westgate business associations.

The sale was ordered by the Civil Aeronautics Board because of Westgate's interests in the Yellow Cab Company and coach lines serving Los Angeles International Airport in competition with the local service airlines.

"MANY MINORITY faculty and students at California State College at Long Beach are unable to find decent, convenient housing within a reasonable distance of the campus at a price they can afford," the advisory board's resolution said.

"This shortage will become more acute during the coming academic year when the members of such faculty and students will increase," the resolution added.

It pointed out CSLB now has nearly 30,000 students, faculty and staff, is the largest state college in

As an alternate program, the association plans to ask the city to survey all city buildings that may violate "earthquake-proofing" ordinances, and meanwhile cease condemnation proceedings.

Then, leaders of the association say, the city manager's office should estimate how much money required building improvements will cost.

The city council should then set up a finance committee to help owners finance repairs and should supply compensation to owners who must have their buildings torn down.

L.B. Airline Plans Bay Area Service

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

Aero Commuter-California Airlines, now serving a network of Southern California communities from its Long Beach headquarters, will fly routes in the northern part of the state next week.

Fred L. Austin, Aero Commuter president, Friday said the airline will take over some routes presently operated by Skymark Airlines of Sacramento "within a few days."

Skymark's commuter service links San Francisco Bay area airports and some cities in central California. The airline earlier this week announced it would suspend service soon because of financial problems.

AUSTIN SAID AERO Commuter has agreed to operate some of Skymark's routes and hire a number of its personnel while the upstate airline arranges new financing or seeks a merger.

A Skymark spokesman said the airline will become, in effect, the northern division of Aero Commuter, but Austin said the Long Beach firm has not yet entered into merger negotiations.

Aero Commuter recently acquired the Southern California routes formerly operated by Cable Commuter Airlines and Golden West Airlines. Since last year the Long Beach firm also has held a majority interest in Los Angeles Airways, only other commuter in the field.

Formerly owned by Westgate-California Corp. of San Diego, Aero Commuter was sold earlier to Continental Western Corp., a privately-held Missouri firm with previous Westgate business associations.

The sale was ordered by the Civil Aeronautics Board because of Westgate's interests in the Yellow Cab Company and coach lines serving Los Angeles International Airport in competition with the local service airlines.

I, P-T to Offer Views of School Board Hopefuls

A summary of views of candidates on key questions affecting the Long Beach Unified School District board will be presented on the editorial page of Sunday's Independent Press-Telegram.

Their views were brought out by a questionnaire from the League of Women Voters and are offered as guidance for the electorate.

Don't miss this timely feature — in the Sunday edition of the I, P-T.

GARDENING

LIMONIUM 'SEA LAVENDER'... Superb Dry Flower Arrangement

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

One of the most outstanding of perennial plants that provide "double mileage" use of flowers is Limonium perenzii. The clusters of miniature purple-lavender, spotted with white florets hardly larger than a pin head, stalks two or three feet long furnish needed 'blue color' in the garden, yet they may be harvested, dried and then used again in a dry arrangement indoors for several years!

Our dry arrangement of these amazing flowers in a Chinese mustard-color pottery urn, with two Chinese figures beside the urn base made an attractive arrangement display for five years, before we finally discarded the dry flowers.

Limonium assumed to be a plant only for coastal conditions grows well inland in drier areas, and tolerates winds. Frosts can nip them back. One year heavy frosts killed our plants. They are easily replaced because the gardeners can purchase them small packages. These plants would even be worth the extra cost if one had to buy them in gallon cans.

PERENNIALS serve various landscape planting uses. A few of them planted in annual flower beds are "anchor" plants. When annuals have finished blooming, dug out and thrown away, the anchor perennial plants add color or foliage until new seasonal annuals are replanted.

A bed of perennials wisely selected as to different seasons of bloom, furnish color the year round. Hardy perennials planted in front of shrubs withstand shrubby roots encroachment, and produce needed color when shrubs are not blooming.

Low-growing perennials, add neat trim effect bordering a rose bed, flower bed, outdoor planter box, around a tree, and soften the sharp dividing line between walk or driveway and lawn or flower bed.

Some perennials like the Dianthus Rose Marie and Hybrid Gazanias blossom practically the year round, whereas, Bergenia (saxifrage) flowers during the winter. Coral bells bloom in the spring. They blossom the heaviest from late spring into fall. They flower some in milder sections during the winter.

LIRIOPE MUSCARI, "lily turf," another common name "perennial grape hyacinth" is a welcome addition in shade or partly shaded garden, and for outdoor planter box. It's a good pot plant for patio or porch. The outstanding quality of this plant is that it answers a need for lavender-to-orchid color during the summer when usually there's a lack of flowers furnishing this particular shade of color. The foliage is attractive the year round.

Your partially shaded garden isn't complete unless you have some Helianthus orientalis, "Lenten rose!" The large dark green, leathery finger-like leaves are attractive the year round. Plants start to bloom sometime in December or January and continue flowering through April. The single anemone-like blossoms might be an off-white color, various shades of pink or rose, two tone colors, or possibly the deepest plum color shade imaginable.

THEY DON'T rot, and have to be hand picked. When the flower forms a seed pod, the petals lose their normal color, turn a chartreuse green shade and stiffen as if they were starched. As the seed pod bursts open, scattering the seeds which later sprout and mature into full grown plants, the flower petals slowly dry and seem to disappear. Unless you observe the blossoms every day, one day you'll look and wonder where the flowers went.

The seedling plants around the mother clump finally mature and blossom. The flower colors may be quite different from the mother clump. The cut flowers last for several days if you put cut-end stems into about four inches of hot water, as hot as you can get it from the hot water faucet.

CLUB NOTES

LONG BEACH GARDEN CLUB has a group of original flower arrangements on display at the Los Altos Broadway Store. They are to be seen until Saturday on the second level, near the escalator.

On April 8, the Long Beach Garden Club and their guests will board a chartered bus at 10:00 A.M. in the parking lot north of Glendale Federal Savings, Los Altos Shopping Center. They will visit the famed Descanso Gardens, enjoy picnic lunches and plan to return at 4:00 P.M. Mrs. J. H. Cook is in charge of reservations.

The regular meeting of the Long Beach Garden Club will be held on April 9, at 1:00 p.m. in the Community Room of the Glendale Federal Savings in the Los Altos Shopping Center, 5535 Stearns St. Clarence Estwood of Huntington Beach, the President of California National Fuchsia Society, will speak on, "Shade Plants." Election of officers will be held. The plant table will be furnished by all of the members. Visitors welcome.

THE BELMONT HEIGHTS Garden Club will visit the Botanical Gardens, Palos Verdes Peninsula Tuesday. Tour will depart from 3rd Street and Termino Avenue by bus at 12 noon. Members are asked to bring a sack lunch.

MISS HATSUMI KITAJIMA, a former student of Mrs. Kosei Osada, will present a program on "Oriental Flower Arrangement" for the Los Altos Garden Club, April 9. The Club a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. African violet plants and accessories will be for sale.

Nejedly Visits Capitol, Hits Reagan on Taxes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen.-elect John A. Nejedly came to the State Capitol Friday to view the Senate his election won for the Republican party. He immediately broke with Gov. Ronald Reagan over the key issue of withholding. The veteran district attorney met Sen. Hugh M. Burns, the veteran lawmaker who is giving up his Senate leadership post because the GOP won control of the Upper House.

"I don't desire to carry on the burdens of this office after this year," Burns told the Sacramento Press Club while Nejedly listened. "I would be very difficult to sell on the idea of running again."

Solons Vacation, Full Slate Ahead

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Legislature recessed for a week-long Easter vacation Friday.

The lawmakers will return April 7 to face such major unresolved issues as tax reform, campus disorder, flood relief and Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed record $6.2-billion budget.

As the lawmakers prepared to leave for home, the Senate ended a nearly three-year struggle to bail out the financially ailing Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

VARIED MINISTRIES AT NOON WORSHIP Set 4 United Holy Week Services at 1st Baptist

Long Beach's traditional Holy Week noonday services, sponsored by the area Council of Churches in cooperation with the Ministerial Assn., will be hosted this year by stately First Baptist at 10th Street and Pine Avenue, a church which will shortly celebrate its 75th year at the heart of the city's religious life.

Services Monday through Thursday are scheduled from 12:10 to 12:50 p.m. Host pastor Dr. Frank M. Kepner will preside at the opening day. Instead of one invited guest bringing the message on all four days, as in previous years, a most interesting departure finds four area clergymen with specialized ministries bringing the message of the fateful week of 30 A.D. in Jerusalem.

Monday's speaker will be Rev. John Wagner, Jr., director of the Inter-Religious Committee for the Los Angeles Goals Project, one who has made intensive studies of the urban situation.

Chaplain Jack R. Peters, a Southern Baptist minister who is Protestant chaplain at the Naval Base on Terminal Island, will speak Tuesday.

Wednesday's message will be brought by Rev. Melvin G. Talbert, United Methodist district superintendent for the Long Beach area (and as a matter of interest, though ideally in the future it will need no special mention, the first Negro to hold such a post in his denomination's Southland conference.)

Concluding the services Kenneth A. Stewart, president of Pacific Christian College of Long Beach (affiliated with the Christian Church and churches of Christ.)

Music will be brought on Monday by Mrs. Jean Kinell, on Tuesday by the New Hope Baptist Young Adult Choir, Wednesday by the Madrigal Singers of Wilson High School and Thursday by the Pacific Christian College Male Quartet.

Assisting in the Monday services will be Rev. C. LeRoy Doty Jr. of Church of the Brethren. The scripture and prayer will be brought on the succeeding days by Revs. Nathaniel J. Kirkpatrick of New Hope Baptist, Stanley C. Brown of Grace Methodist and W. Paul McBride of East Side Christian.

Ushers will be provided by the host church under direction of Chester Smith.

CONCORDIAN CHORISTERS HERE

Lively young Concordia Choristers, concert choir of California Concordia College of Oakland, will sing at two choral services Sunday, 8 and 11 a.m. in Bethany Lutheran Church, 4644 Clark Ave., with the public invited. It will be homecoming for Eloise Nobis of Long Beach, center in first row. Choir presents traditional and contemporary works, accompanied in some by stringed instruments. Students are all preparing for full time service in the Lutheran pastoral, teaching and deaconess ministry.

SCIENTIST AT Y GOOD FRIDAY

"The Moon, the Planets and Beyond" will be the topic of Robert E. Hage, vice president of McDonnell Douglas Corp., at the first annual Good Friday Breakfast sponsored by the YMCA of Greater Long Beach, 8 a.m. at the Elks Club. Other participants are Gus A. Walker, president of Farmers & Merchants Bank of Long Beach, John H. Armbruster, president of Federal Savings, St. Louis, and Dr. John E. Kashiwabara.

Scholarship Foundation at Grant Chapel

First installation program will be held Sunday from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. in Grant Chapel A.M.E. Church for the Pauline Whitfield Scholarship Foundation.

The Foundation, in honor of the late Mrs. Whitfield, who played a leading role in the church at 1129 Alamitos Ave., will aid worthy students to further their education.

The public is invited to attend the program by Mrs. Delphine Hays, chairman. Installing officer will be Mrs. Grace Kyle, wife of Rev. Dwight Kyle, former pastor at Grant Chapel.

NOTICE

News of Maundy Thursday and Good Friday observances in area churches will appear in stories during the week on the news pages of The Independent and The Press-Telegram. Easter Sunrise services will appear on next Saturday's religious news pages.

The former must be received by Tuesday morning, and the latter by Thursday morning, in writing, in order to be included.

der, flood relief and Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed record $6.2-billion budget. As the lawmakers prepared to leave for home, the Senate ended a nearly three-year struggle to bail out the financially ailing Bay Area Rapid Transit District. It voted final approval to a bill imposing a half-cent sales tax increase on the three district counties for up to six years. The tax is estimated to raise $150 million to complete construction of the deficit-ridden system in San Francisco, Contra Costa and Alameda counties. The vote was 27-2.

Kills Closed Meeting Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — By a split voice vote Friday, the Assembly's Government Administration Committee killed a bill which would have prohibited legislative bodies from holding closed meetings. The bill by Assemblyman William M. Ketchum, R-Paso Robles, would have placed both legislative houses under the Ralph M. Brown Act banning secret meetings.

Burns told the Sacramento Press Club while Nejedly listened. "I would be very difficult to sell on the idea of running again."

BURNS introduced Nejedly to the press club as a "thinking man" and probably a "good addition to the Senate."

Nejedly, whose election Tuesday gave the GOP its first majority in the Upper House in 13 years said he would not always vote the party line.

He said he favored a withholding plan for the collection of personal income taxes that would be tied to a "forgiveness" program so that tax bills for two years would not be paid in one.

Reagan has adamantly opposed withholding. He contends taxes should hurt and withholding eases the pain.

NEJEDLY also criticized the Reagan Administration for failing to fully "implement the state water project" and singled out water resources director William Gianelli to bear blame for the delay.

He also said he disagrees with Gianelli's strong backing for the proposed Dos Rios Dam in Mendocino County.

Asked if he would join with other Republicans to unseat Senate leader Hugh M. Burns this session, Nejedly said he hasn't decided yet. He said he could possibly even vote to retain Burns.

"I could vote for anybody," Nejedly said.

Burns predicted there would be no attempt by the GOP to unseat him during the 1969 legislative session.

"There will be no change in the Senate management at the moment," he said. "There doesn't seem to be any desire to make any move like that at the moment."

CSLB'S REV. DRISCOLL DIGS YOUTH

From Admiral to Campus Minister...

He'll Preach Famed Sunrise Service

By LES RODNEY

"Utterly and totally shocked — and delighted." That was the reaction of Rev. Roland D. Driscoll when he was asked to preach the Easter sunrise service at Hollywood Bowl.

Rev. Driscoll will bring a most interesting, quite probably unique, background to the pulpit of the big amphitheater in the foothills. When he retired as a rear admiral from a Navy chaplaincy career, he stayed right in there with his favorite people — young people — and for the past seven years has been a popular campus minister for four of the mainline Protestant denominations at Cal State Long Beach. He is also a marriage counselor.

IN ADDITION to the challenge of bringing the message to the original, nationally televised sunrise service on the most meaningful day of the year for Christians, Rev. Driscoll mentioned a pleasant personal fringe benefit.

"My mother, she's 87 now, back in Pitman, New Jersey, will be able to switch on the TV for the service. She hasn't seen or heard me preach in some years. She's quite excited about it."

A native of southern New Jersey who left the pastoral ministry for the service on Dec. 8, 1941, the day after the bombs fell, the keen eyed, craggy faced cleric is still very much "Navy." It was inevitable that he would settle where he could see and smell the ocean.

"You remember the feeling at first, when you went in, that you were just a civilian in uniform," he said in a chat this week. "I thought I couldn't wait to get back to the parish. That changed. I grew to love the sea — and the men who sailed it. I discovered too that the Navy was as much a ministry as anywhere."

"The percentage of committed young men on campus is 3.5 per cent. It's 10 per cent in the Navy." Beyond those figures, of course, he notes, are many more who are reached to some extent.

BUT REV. Driscoll does not spend much time thinking back on his Navy days. He doesn't have that kind of time. He is a man of enthusiasm for the now as well as the then. He finds the campus exciting too.

After his years of close contact with college men and women, his thoughts on the much-discussed modern breed are not exactly of the standard variety.

"My feeling," he says with characteristic quick emphasis, "is that they are brighter, they take their academic work more seriously, in fact, they are a better generation than mine. They have concerns we never even responded to. We just didn't care."

"When I was in college it was a more relaxed period, we sort of played our way along. These kids understand their time better." He sighed. "Their difficulty is the speed of today's world. They never have the time to resolve things because new developments are on them, robbing them of the ordered life and pace we knew."

Rev. Driscoll makes the big distinction between large masses of students "protesting for good aims, the noble dreamers," and what he terms "the perhaps one and a half per cent of malevolent dreamers, those who would just destroy, who stand for nothing."

"I SEE many of today's students as protesting production line education... the ridiculousness of professional standards where a doctor is 32 before he can set up... the official requirements which rob them of the chance to get into the thick of things while they have the full vigor and the insights that we often lack."

"Of course," the campus minister continued, "they do not always understand what we have come to know — that if one is to understand the present, he must understand and appreciate the past. My criticism is that they're in such a hurry to reshape things that they are passing by much that could help. But —" he smiled. "When you say that to them, you're just an old man from another generation."

Making no defense for their "sometimes irrational behavior," and disruptive tactics, he feels it important to note that the basic motivations of such controversial organizations as the BSU and UMMS (militant black and Mexican-American students respectively) are excellent ones. "Their starting point, the reason they came into existence, was to help others of their minority groups to also get a college education. You can't quarrel with that."

"Let's face it," the minister went on. "If I wanted to move there are a thousand places around here I could move into. That's not the case with someone with a black skin. They can't move into any house they are able to afford. We still rob them of their dignity as persons."

"AS A churchman, I want our churches to understand what so many good young people are rightly unhappy about. If they don't, in another decade where will the churches be?"

Despite the pace and the problems — or perhaps partly because of them? — Rev. Driscoll declares "It's fun to be working with the young people. It's the right place." He doesn't buy the gloom and doom perspective.

"I'm an optimist. I feel the world is safe with this generation growing up. We can blast them for this and that, but in the great majority they are a superior crop. Our young men in Vietnam are further proof of the idealism and quality of this generation."

rary campus. I might add he enjoys a similar fine rapport with his colleagues of the faculty.")

Rev. Driscoll carries his empathy for young people into his marriage counseling work, finding many of them looking for the type of meaningful relationship often denied them when they were growing up.

"THEY ARE sensitive to personal relationships," he says. "I've shocked some parents by telling them flatly 'you don't love your children.' Many parents will give the children all sorts of things — but not themselves."

Needless to say, the sight of complete families attending Easter services is not an unpleasant one to him.

He'll be put up by the Bowl people the night before in a Hollywood hotel, along with the 120-voice Naval Academy choir from Annapolis which will add to the Navy flavor of the 49th annual observance.

The half light of the 5 a.m. hour in Hollywood Bowl will not seem too strange for one who has so often meditated and quietly talked of God on vessels hissing softly through the night waters of the great dark Pacific, made even more beautiful by the war dangers ahead.

HE HASN'T prepared his sermon yet, but he can describe its content in a few words.

"At Easter," he says,

REV. DRISCOLL
'Better Generation'

"We celebrate our belief in a living Christ. My sermon is going to say yes, a thousandfold, to LIVE in His way, with justice and mercy... this is the idea almost scorned by some. It is to live in Christ."

"In Martin Luther's great words — unforced, we acquire the will and feel the impulse to do good to everybody, and to suffer everything for the glory of God Who has bestowed such favor upon us..."

Says Jackie May

Join Greek Faith

BOSTON (UPI) — Archbishop Iakovos, primate of the Greek Orthodox Church of North and South America, said Friday Mrs. Jacqueline Onassis "may decide" to leave her Roman Catholic religion and become Greek Orthodox.

He told a news conference: "If she is deprived of the sacraments of her own church, she may become a member of our church."

3,000-Year-Old Freedom Story

Told at Passover

Passover, the eight-day festival commemorating the freedom of the Jews from bondage in Egypt, and celebrated for more than 3,000 years, begins at sundown Wednesday.

Reflecting years of persecution when for security reasons the home became the synagogue, Judaism's oldest religious festival is basically observed in the home, with one or more families and friends gathering for the Seder.

Accompanied by joyful traditional melodies, and a full table which includes symbolic reminders of the hardships of the great exodus toward the promised land, the head of the family responds to questions by the children and tells the Biblical story of the events which have been placed about 1220 B.C.

THIS ANNUAL recounting of the story is in obedience to a divine commandment preserved in The Book of Exodus:

"And when in time to come your son asks you 'What does this mean?' you say to him, 'By strength of hand the Lord brought us out of Egypt, from the house of bondage.'"

Some temples in modern times have instituted community seders. Temple Sinai of Long Beach will hold one such following services at 6 p.m. Wednesday. Temple Beth Emet of Orange County in Anaheim will hold a community seder on the second night, Thursday. Reservations are requested for the dinners in both temples.

In a Passover message, Arthur J. Goldberg, former Supreme Court justice and ambassador to the United Nations, now president of the American Jewish Committee, called for a just and lasting settlement in the Middle East in which Israel and the Arab states must be "parties to the peace and its making," which should guarantee that "every state and all the people in the Middle East can live in security."

THE RABBI of the Southland's largest Conservative congregation, Rabbi Jacob Pressman of Temple Beth Am of Los Angeles, proposed a nationwide freedom festival to celebrate and preserve American independence, comparable to the Passover rites, "with every American family gathered voluntarily at table, reading the cherished documents of this land," and answering the questions of the children. Such a ritual, he said, would include the songs of American freedom.

"A 'seder' for all Americans," he said. "How wonderful it would be if we could renew every year our awareness of the priceless gift of liberty, wrested for us by our colonial fathers."

FROM THE PULPIT

Nothing has ever been accomplished for God without a vision of what He can do. We have enjoyed His blessings each week in seeing souls saved and the church added to. This coming Sunday we have set a goal of 1500 for our Sunday School attendance at 9:45. This is an increase of 50% over our regular goal for this quarter. However, we believe that it is the responsibility of God's people to bring others into His House. The goal is not an impossible one.

We would like to extend a very special invitation to you to come and help us "Break our Record." If you believe in a ministry that stresses the teaching of God's Word, you would enjoy our services.

"Come to Calvary, Calvary is for you."

CONFIDENT LIVING 'Getting Away' Not Key to Relaxing

The general idea of relaxation seems to be to get away from it all to some quiet place and there to sit, sleep, eat and play. Well, this writer lives about as busy a life as the next one and we are inclined to challenge that "get away to a quiet place" technique.

I'm writing this column on an airplane returning to New York and my various jobs. I've just come from one of the quietest and most secluded resort hotels in the world. And I couldn't be happier than to be headed for home and all the crowding, pressing responsibilities that make up my lot in life.

The particular retreat to which I fled from hecticness is an incredibly beautiful hotel situated on a soft sandy beach in a golden sunshiny climate where balmy breezes are wafted, where stars throng the heavens at night and a full moon sends a long silvery shaft across the rippling ocean. Palm trees bend gracefully in the wind and all nature is decked out, its best foot forward day after day. As for rain, nary a drop — only sunshine.

THE HOTEL is open in its center with palm trees growing up to the sleeping rooms. A stream, crossed by artistic little bridges, meanders through the Japanese gardens. And all this in the hotel itself! Lobby and corridors, exposed to the outside which is brought inside, are washed by fresh winds off the sea. The hotel is a dream of the architect's art, and the service is impeccable. Smiling young men and women in Oriental costume cater to your every whim. From a scrumptious breakfast on your balcony, watching the sparkling sea, through dinner on an exotic terrace where shaded lights and soft haunting music lend an air of the South Seas, every effort is made to relax you — to slow you down. The hotel is so vast that only rarely does one guest spot another. It is the epitome of quietness and peace.

And I wouldn't have missed spending a week there for anything. But do you know something? After being there for two peace-packed days, I was glad to accept a speaking engagement in a nearby city, thus getting back into the old routine. Returning for two more days, I was tickled to death to accept an invitation to visit a nearby territory and attend a big dinner party in our honor.

And now I'm winging my way home on this big jet aircraft and I've got a schedule that could make some people tired just to look at it. But believe me, I couldn't be happier to stop isolated relaxing and get back on the job.

Now maybe a full getaway is just what some people need. But I'll take my relaxing another way, sort of like the way the heart does it — lub, dub, a beat and a rest. The heart, which has reams of energy, simply rests between each effort and its style of relaxation keeps it and you going way up into old age.

Perhaps the best technique of relaxation is to commingle it with the daily work process. After pushing it all day, don't push it more in the evening. Stay home, put your feet up and read a good book. And be leary of television. If you're like me, it gets on the nerves so that a little of that goes a long way. Top off the evening with a brisk walk. Make it a mile or two and don't stroll. Really walk — head high, stomach in, breathing deeply. You'll sleep like a baby. Talk about relaxation; you will be raring to go the next morning.

TAKE MINUTE vacations during the day. Sit back in your office chair. Close the eyes and in memory go away to some place that means a lot to you such as where you like to fish or where you play golf now and then. Letting the mind go away, if only for a moment, will tone up the body with an infusion of fresh energy.

You really do not need to take a trip and suffer through all the rigmarole of travel. Just send your mind on a mental vacation. You'll be surprised at how refreshed and reinvigorated you will be.

Now don't get me wrong. I am not against go-away vacations. It's good to see new places, make new friends and break the routine. But often people wear themselves out just running around and then have to come home to rest up.

The best relaxation is to develop the relaxed spirit right within yourself. Quietness at the center is the idea. Out of it comes the energy that puts drive into you. And with that you can work and like it.

U.S. Ecumenism Praised by Pope

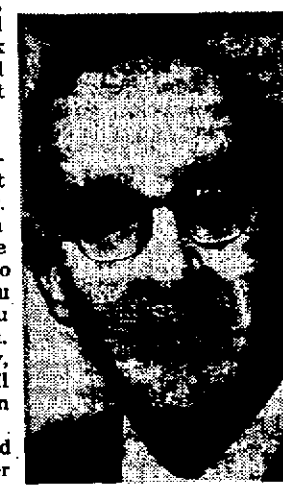

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI praised ecumenical progress in the United States Friday and called for a deeper search for ways to overcome "painful differences" that remain between Catholics and Protestants.

The pope spoke to six American Protestant leaders, including Episcopalians, Methodists, Lutherans and Baptist representatives, who were invited to Rome by the Vatican Secretariat for Christian Unity to report on progress in Catholic-Protestant relations in America.

DOWN UNDER THEOLOGIAN

Dr. Allen G. Elliott, president elect of Woolwich Bible College of Australia, and a recognized scholar in theology and church history who lectures frequently in the British Isles, begins a nationwide tour Sunday, 11 a.m. in First Christian Church, Fifth and Locust. He will also lecture at Pacific Christian College Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning.

IN LAKEWOOD FOR HOLY WEEK

Rev. Dr. K. Morgan Edwards, chairman of the Southern Methodist Board of Evangelism, and the Bishop Kennedy Professor of Preaching at the School of Theology in Claremont, will conduct a Holy Week preaching mission Tuesday through Friday, 7:30 p.m. at First United Methodist of Lakewood, 4300 Bellflower Blvd.

YOUTH PAYOFF, 78-MILE WALK

A walk to San Diego will be undertaken by the youth directors of two area churches in payoff for a challenge. They said they would walk a mile for every new person attending a church activity during a six-week period.

The youth groups of Bethany Baptist Church of Long Beach and St. John's United Presbyterian of Compton brought in 154 new people. So John Colombe and Avery Powers will take off for San Diego, pledging to walk 78 miles, Tuesday, 9 a.m. from the Red Wing Shoes at 230 E. Fifth St. The store provided them with boots.

PALM SUNDAY MUSIC IN AREA CHURCHES

Long Beach area churches will feature many special musical programs to commemorate Palm Sunday, the day when Jesus and his devoted little band of followers entered Jerusalem to launch the climactic week which was to transform history.

Despite official hostility toward the bothersome teacher, many people greeted Him joyously, strewing palm leaves in his path. This is the origin of "Palm Sunday."

Handel's soaring "Messiah," parts 2 and 3, will be presented at Our Saviour's Lutheran, 370 Junipero Ave., at 7:30 p.m. with the Chancel Choir and four guest soloists. Conductor Wallace R. Herrewig points out that the Christmas section, part 1, is heard often, but parts 2 and 3, dealing with Lent and Easter, are rarely performed by church choirs. Laura Echeveria will be at the 3 manual Reuter organ.

AT FIRST Baptist, 10th and Pine, the 50-voice Sanctuary Choir, plus soloists, a mixed quartet, women's quartet and trumpet soloist, will present the annual Easter Musical depicting the suffering, crucifixion and resurrection of Christ. The 7 p.m. musical will be directed by Harold Agal, with Samuel Posthuma at the organ.

PALM SUNDAY

"And many spread their garments in the way; and others cut down branches off the trees, and strawed them in the way. And they that went before, and they that followed, cried, saying Hosanna; Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord: Blessed be the kingdom of our father David, that cometh in the name of the Lord, Hosanna in the highest. And Jesus entered into Jerusalem..." — St. Mark 11:8, 11.

Fifth and Pacific, will lead an 11 a.m. procession carrying palm branches. At Covenant Presbyterian, Third and Pacific, young people at 7 p.m. will perform "Rejoice," a "pop mass," in which the traditional content is set in the contemporary young musical format. Under direction of Robert Dill, youthful musicians will be at the organ, guitar, harpichord and bass, with narration by Sharon Anderson.

At Trinity Lutheran, Eighth and Linden, at both 8:30 and 11 a.m. services, Ward Grantham will direct the dramatic Peterson Easter cantata "Hallelujah! What a Savior!" At University Baptist, 3434 Chatwin Ave., the senior and youth choirs will perform "The Lord's Supper" at 10:30 a.m. At Christ Lutheran, 6500 Stearns Ave., three choirs and soloist Mrs. George Schmalbeck will present the "Palms."

Henri Scanlon, tenor soloist who was founder of the Long Beach Civic Light Opera Co., will be among those presenting the DuBois cantata "The Seven Last Words of Christ" at 11 a.m. in Western Avenue Southern Baptist of Anaheim, 219 S. Western Ave. At Grace Methodist, Third and Junipero, the combined adult and youth choirs, with brass accompanying the organ, will sing "Draw Nigh Unto Jerusalem," by Williams, and "Sanctus," by Gounod, at the 8:45 and 11 a.m. services.

The Kingsmen Quartet of California Lutheran College of Thousand Oaks will make a guest 11 a.m. appearance at Mount Calvary Lutheran, 9961 Valley View St., Cypress. At the Wayfarer's Chapel in Palos Verdes, the traditional 5 p.m. re-enactment of the Meal in the Upper Room will be presented by the Chapel Choir.

Anaheim Center Concert Tonight by Cal Lutheran

"Sounds of California Lutheran College" will be heard in Anaheim Convention Center starting at 8:15 tonight, when the noted 80-member choral and instrumental ensemble presents a concert.

Geared for the entire family, the program's scope includes Renaissance music to the modern sounds of Menotti, and Richard Rogers.

Included in the ensemble are a 55-voice choir, 25-piece symphonette, string ensembles, brass and woodwind groups, vocal and instrumental trios and quartets — under the direction of Dr. C. Robert Zimmerman, former musical director with NBC radio, and founder and director of the Portland Symphonic Choir.

The appearance will climax the eighth annual tour that has taken this group from the Thousand Oaks college onto the concert stages of major cities across the Western U.S. and Canada.

CONFIDENT LIVING 'Getting Away' Not Key to Relaxing

The general idea of relaxation seems to be to get away from it all to some quiet place and there to sit, sleep, eat and play. Well, this writer lives about as busy a life as the next one and we are inclined to challenge that "get away to a quiet place" technique.

I'm writing this column on an airplane returning to New York and my various jobs. I've just come from one of the quietest and most secluded resort hotels in the world. And I couldn't be happier than to be headed for home and all the crowding, pressing responsibilities that make up my lot in life.

Palm trees bend gracefully in the wind and all nature is decked out, its best foot forward day after day. As for rain, nary a drop — only sunshine.

THE HOTEL is open in its center with palm trees growing up to the sleeping rooms. A stream, crossed by artistic little bridges, meanders through the Japanese gardens. And all this in the hotel itself! Lobby and corridors, exposed to the outside which is brought inside, are washed by fresh winds off the sea. The hotel is a dream of the architect's art, and the service is impeccable. Smiling young men and women in Oriental costume cater to your every whim. From a scrumptious breakfast on your balcony, watching the sparkling sea, through dinner on an exotic terrace where shaded lights and soft haunting music lend an air of the South Seas, every effort is made to relax you — to slow you down. The hotel is so vast that only rarely does one guest spot another. It is the epitome of quietness and peace.

And I wouldn't have missed spending a week there for anything. But do you know something? After being there for two peace-packed days, I was glad to accept a speaking engagement in a nearby city, thus getting back into the old routine. Returning for two more days, I was tickled to death to accept an invitation to visit a nearby territory and attend a big dinner party in my honor. And now I'm winging my way home on this big jet aircraft and I've got a schedule that could make some people tired just to look at it. But believe me, I couldn't be happier to stop isolated relaxing and get back on the job.

Now maybe a full getaway is just what some people need. But I'll take my relaxing another way, sort of like the way the heart does it — lub, dub, a beat and a rest. The heart, which has reams of energy, simply rests between each effort and its style of relaxation keeps it and you going way up into old age.

Perhaps the best technique of relaxation is to commingle it with the daily work process. After pushing it all day, don't push it more in the evening. Stay home, put your feet up and read a good book. And be leary of television. If you're like me, it gets on the nerves so that a little of that goes a long way. Top off the evening with a brisk walk. Make it a mile or two and don't stroll. Really walk — head high, stomach in, breathing deeply. You'll sleep like a baby. Talk about relaxation; you will be raring to go the next morning.

Now don't get me wrong. I am not against go-away vacations. It's good to see new places, make new friends and break the routine. But often people wear themselves out just running around and then have to come home to rest up.

The best relaxation is to develop the relaxed spirit right within yourself. Quietness at the center is the idea. Out of it comes the energy that puts drive into you. And with that you can work and like it.

At University Baptist, 3434 Chatwin Ave., the senior and youth choirs will perform "The Lord's Supper" at 10:30 a.m. At Christ Lutheran, 6500 Stearns Ave., three choirs and soloist Mrs. George Schmalbeck will present the "Palms."

Henri Scanlon, tenor soloist who was founder of the Long Beach Civic Light Opera Co., will be among those presenting the DuBois cantata "The Seven Last Words of Christ" at 11 a.m. in Western Avenue Southern Baptist of Anaheim, 219 S. Western Ave. At Grace Methodist, Third and Junipero, the combined adult and youth choirs, with brass accompanying the organ, will sing "Draw Nigh Unto Jerusalem," by Williams, and "Sanctus," by Gounod, at the 8:45 and 11 a.m. services.

The Kingsmen Quartet of California Lutheran College of Thousand Oaks will make a guest 11 a.m. appearance at Mount Calvary Lutheran, 9961 Valley View St., Cypress.

At the Wayfarer's Chapel in Palos Verdes, the traditional 5 p.m. re-enactment of the Meal in the Upper Room will be presented by the Chapel Choir.

Anaheim Center Concert Tonight by Cal Lutheran

"Sounds of California Lutheran College" will be heard in Anaheim Convention Center starting at 8:15 tonight, when the noted 80-member choral and instrumental ensemble presents a concert.

Geared for the entire family, the program's scope includes Renaissance music to the modern sounds of Menotti, and Richard Rogers.

Included in the ensemble are a 55-voice choir, 25-piece symphonette, string ensembles, brass and woodwind groups, vocal and instrumental trios and quartets — under the direction of Dr. C. Robert Zimmerman, former musical director with NBC radio, and founder and director of the Portland Symphonic Choir.

The appearance will climax the eighth annual tour that has taken this group from the Thousand Oaks college onto the concert stages of major cities across the Western U.S. and Canada.

GOINGS ON

(Aside from Palm Sunday Musical Programs)

Dean and Mary Jean Brown, the talented husband and wife team, and their Caravan Singers, always a spectacular hit in Long Beach, will present a sacred concert Sunday, 7 p.m. in Salvation Army Temple, 455 E. Spring St. "A Time for Burning," award-winning Lutheran film about an Omaha church and race relations, will be shown Sunday 9:50 a.m. and 7 p.m. at Grace Methodist, 370 Junipero Ave., which will also, Monday 7:30 p.m., show the Billy Graham feature "For Pete's Sake!" which Grace's associate pastor Ty Curtis helped write and produce.

THE LOS Angeles Baptist College Choral of Newhall will offer a concert from the music of the past 400 years next Saturday, April 5, at 7 p.m. in California Heights Baptist, 4130 Gardena Ave. . . . The Chapel Choir of Baylor University of Waco, Tex., on its annual tour, will present a concert Tuesday, 7:30 p.m. in Narbonne Avenue Baptist, 24730 Narbonne Ave., Lomita . . . West Lakewood Baptist, 5121 Hayter Ave., will present a live portrayal of The Lord's Supper Wednesday 7:30 p.m.

LBCC Medical Office Course Helps Fill Need

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Demand for well-trained medical-office assistants remains constant and "tireless," says Mrs. Caroline W. Misener, instructor in the medical-office assisting course at Long Beach City College.

Even older women can be placed in jobs, she said, as current students prepare for an open-house program on April 28.

Classes now are held on the Business and Technology campus, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Highway, but will move to the Liberal Arts campus at 4901 E. Carson St. when a new medical technology building is completed by September.

The course, ranging from one to two years, prepares a woman to handle all phases of medical office work — receptionist, bookkeeper, insurance clerk, medical transcriber, laboratory technician and some nursing duties.

MRS. MISENER says there is no tuition fee, but the student must purchase her own books — about $40 worth — as well as her uniforms. Each student serves an internship in a local physician's office two days a week for the last two months of her training. Women up to 55 years may enroll.

Beginning salaries range from $400 to $500 a month, Mrs. Misener said. The course was first offered in 1949 and graduates an average of 20 to 25 students annually.

Mrs. Misener attended Duke University Nursing School and is also a graduate of the 1955 class of medical assisting at Long Beach City College. She worked in physicians' offices for seven years and began teaching the class in 1963.

DONNA BOARDWINE

L.B. Girl New Naval Base Queen

Brunette Donna Boardwine was crowned Long Beach Naval Supply Center's 1969 queen Friday night at the center's fifth annual anniversary dance in the Elks Club.

The new queen, 24, is from Long Beach and works in the Center's Quality Assurance & Internal Review Division.

She was elected from among seven candidates by her coworkers.

Equipment Stolen

Camera equipment valued at $275 was taken from a car owned by Virgil Shain, of Westminster, while the vehicle was parked on Lakewood Boulevard near Conant Street, Long Beach police said Friday.

2 More File for Council; 30 in Race

Two more candidates for the Long Beach City Council filed their papers Friday with the city clerk's office.

They are Tarry J. Robert, 7881 Ring St., in the Fifth District, and Preston D. Ashbourne, 269 E. Plymouth St., in the Eighth District.

There now are 30 candidates for City Council, three for auditor, and one each for city attorney and city prosecutor.

Candidates who have filed declarations of candidacy are now circulating nominating petitions, on which they must obtain signatures of not less than 50 or more than 75 registered voters.

Because of the national day of mourning for former President Eisenhower, the first day to return the petitions to the city clerk's office will be Tuesday. The clerk verifies validity of signatures on the petitions by checking original affidavit of registration in the Los Angeles office of the county Registrar of Voters.

Lew to Earn His Bucks in NBA; ABA Yells 'Foul'

Combined News Services

Lew Alcindor, generally acclaimed the greatest college basketball player in history, has agreed to sign a multi-year $1 million contract with the Milwaukee Bucks of the National Basketball Assn.

Alcindor, three-time all-America who led UCLA to three national collegiate championships, told Milwaukee officials last Wednesday he had decided to go with the NBA after first informing the New York Nets of the rival American Basketball

Assn. of his choice.

Alcindor agreed to terms calling for a five-year pact and a total of $1 million. The money includes a bonus, salary, side benefits and annuities. Alcindor has said on more than one occasion that he plans to play pro ball for only five years.

The ABA apparently gave up the ghost on Alcindor when it filed a multimillion dollar anti-trust suit against the NBA in U.S. District Court in San Francisco Friday.

"I had to weigh two decisions, the ABA and the NBA, and the NBA seemed most solid and sound," Alcindor told New York sports announcer Chip Cipola last Tuesday.

in a taped interview made public Friday night.

Possibly the greatest bidding war in the history of sports had been expected for the services of Alcindor, but his announcement apparently put a quick end to it.

Cipola said Alcindor, on advice from his lawyers, told each team to make their best offer and the Bucks made the better financial offer. He said the Nets then said they thought they could come up with more money if given time to get back to the rest of the ABA teams, but Alcindor said his decision would be made on the first offers by each team.

Alcindor attended Friday night's NBA playoff game between the Lakers and San Francisco in the Forum and reiterated that he had agreed to sign with Milwaukee.

The suit charged the NBA, among other things, of pooling money of its member teams to bid for new players, including superstars. One of the charges claimed a committee, "headed by Boston Celtics general manager Red Auerbach, agreed after the end of the NCAA tournament at Louisville, Ky., March 22, to jointly purchase a superstar through the use of defendants' combined economic power."

Asked by newsmen later if the superstar mentioned was Alcindor, an ABA spokesman replied: "I think that's a logical conclusion." In Boston, Auerbach said he thought "the whole thing ridiculous." He added, "I haven't been to the last three league meetings."

The suit also charged the NBA with conspiring to eliminate competition and drive it (the ABA) out of business, of "disparaging" it (the ABA) to coaches and players, warning NBA players of blacklisting if they associated with the rival league, paying college players under the table and seeking to induce ABA players to break their contracts.

An NBA official, who asked to go nameless, called the suit "their swansong." "To me," he said, "it smacks of finality and gives the ABA a face-saving device to get out before the ship goes down."

IKE AND ARNIE... the last putt drops.

He Wasn't a Star
—But He Loved
Sports

He loved sports. He was not much more than a hacker on the golf course, a rabid rooter for Army football teams, and, for him, the duty of throwing out the first ball of the season for the Washington Senators was a delight rather than a duty.

And so the world of sport prepared to pay its own special tribute, and the sports fans who called him Ike paused to honor the memory of Dwight David Eisenhower.

The American game — as it likes to be called — said through its commissioner that no baseball contest, regular season or exhibition, would be started Monday, the day of the funeral, until at least one hour after the services were concluded.

Ike had played baseball in his younger years in Kansas and at West Point.

For football, the loss was a greater one. One of the most widely printed pictures of the late President was one of his punting form at the academy, before injury halted his playing days and relegated him to managerial duties.

OFFICIALS at the National Airlines Open golf tournament announced a minute of silence will be observed at midday during today's third round.

"The two biggest things in the President's life were golf and his family," recalled Arnold Palmer, who became acquainted with Ike in 1958, after winning the Masters title.

"When he wasn't talking about his grandchildren, I think he was talking about golf. He loved the game. When he was on the course, he could shut out the cares of the world."

BUT IT WAS CLOSE

Scribe Blows Chance to Wow Dodger Brass

VERO BEACH—Dear Boss:

I didn't cover Friday's game between the Dodgers and Minnesota at Orlando.

You're probably not going to believe it, but I was playing shortstop for Spokane.

I was about to get on the bus to go to Orlando Friday morning when Tommy Lasorda, the Spokane manager, yelled, "Hey, Fred, come here a minute." He was standing near one of the diamonds at Dodger town, where his Spokane team was playing Bakersfield.

When I approached Tommy, he said "I thought you said you wanted to work out with us one day."

I had made that statement, but you see it was in the evening. In all honesty, I didn't think Tommy would remember. At least, I hoped he wouldn't.

"Tommy, you guys are playing a game. How could I work out with your team today?" I said, trying to work my way to the bus.

"Oh, I see," he replied. "You didn't really mean what you had said."

Now, chief, how could I squirm out of that?

I headed for the minor league clubhouse. Gee, I thought, think of the great Dodger players who dressed here.

I hadn't put on a baseball uniform in 17 years, dating back to the time I was on the Torrance High junior varsity.

I looked at the locker next to mine and saw the name of Steve Sogge. I knew Steve wouldn't mind if I borrowed one of his sweatshirts.

And so I headed for the field, wearing a Dodger uniform — which looked as though it was from the Jackie Robinson era — and the sweatshirt of a guy who played quarterback for USC.

It seemed like a good combination and, just for luck, I took a letter I had received from my wife that morning and placed it in my back pocket.

A guy who hasn't put on a uniform in 17 years needs all the help he can get.

I walked onto the field and approached Tommy. "Why don't you coach third base?" he said. "Coach," I replied, feeling very confident now, "I came to play."

"Okay," he said, "the next inning you go in at shortstop to replace Bobby Valentine. It was now the third inning of the game and I took over at short."

The next inning I came to bat, wearing sunglasses. "You had better take those sunglasses off," said the umpire.

"Take 'em off? I can't see the pitcher without 'em, let alone the pitch."

As I positioned myself in the batter's box the Bakersfield catcher inquired, "Weren't you with the big club last year?"

"No, son," I replied. "I was with the Angels."

Well, boss, I did cover the Angels last year.

Three pitches and three swings later the young catcher must have wondered about the condition of the Angel club.

"That's okay," shouted Lasorda, a guy who never stops offering encouragement.

The next time up I thought I would look at a pitch instead of swinging right away. It was a strike. The Bakersfield club had discovered how to pitch to me — just get the ball over the plate. Two swings later and I was on my way back to the bench again.

Now the ninth inning arrives. It's a scoreless tie and Sogge, catching for Spokane, is on third after a double and error.

There's one out and guess who's coming to the plate. Just the guy you wouldn't want to see up in this spot — me. I attempted to bunt the first two pitches and failed.

The pitcher comes in with the 0-2 pitch and — believe it or not — I make contact.

The ball squirts down to the first baseman, but it's not a play Sogge — or even Superman — could score on.

The game ends in a scoreless tie.

It's not much consolation, but if I tell the story often enough I may score Sogge yet.

Fassnacht Captures Swim Title

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (Special) — Hans Fassnacht, beaten by inches Thursday night in the finals of the 500-yard freestyle, came back Friday night to give Cal State Long Beach its first-ever NCAA, university division, swimming champion.

Fassnacht, an 18-year-old Olympian from West Germany, set an American record by winning the 400-yard individual medley in 4:07.7.

Fassnacht's triumph, coupled with a fifth-place finish by the 49er 800-yard free style relay team, moved Long Beach into sixth place in the team standings behind Indiana, USC, Yale, Stanford and Michigan.

"I was really pleased with the kids today," Long Beach coach Don Gambrell praised. "I guarantee we'll finish in the top eight. Everyone is swimming their best of the year."

The relay team swam 6:57.25, knocking five seconds off the school record with splits of 1:43.8 (a school record) by sophomore Julio Arango, 1:44.4 by freshman Luis Aysa, 1:46.4 by senior Dennis Putman and 1:42.7 by Fassnacht, a freshman.

INDIANA's Mark Spitz and Don McKenzie also broke American records along with John Ferris of Stanford, but the Hoosier's Charlie Hickcox was upset.

Spitz, the 18-year-old Santa Clara, Calif., freshman, added the 200-yard freestyle title to Thursday night's 500 freestyle crown with a 1:39.5 clocking, eclipsing his old American mark of 1:04.5.

McKenzie, the Olympic 100-meter breaststroke champion, added the 100-yard title in 58.3.

The old mark of 58.4

was set by Ken Merten of Southern Methodist in 1967 and tied by McKenzie in the afternoon trials.

Fred Haywood of Stanford handed Hickcox his first defeat in NCAA championship competition, winning the 100-yard backstroke in 2:52.44 in a photo finish.

Nate Great, Lakers 'Wilt,' 2-Down in Playoff, 107-101

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

They don't call him Nate the Great for nothing.

In one of the most fabulous performances ever seen at the Forum, Nate Thurmond humbled Wilt Chamberlain, overwhelmed the Lakers and lifted San Francisco to a 107-101 NBA playoff victory Friday night.

The stunning win before 15,119 gave the underdog Warriors a sweep of the two games at the Forum and sent them home with renewed optimism that the "super" Lakers are human, after all.

Playing all 48 minutes, Thurmond scored 27 points, grabbed 28 rebounds, set screens, blocked 14 shots and — perhaps even more important — dwarfed Chamberlain, the man he considers the best player in basketball.

"I've never played better against him," admitted the seven-year veteran from Bowling Green. "Wilt's the best, and I pride myself in some day taking his place."

Chamberlain, a man of immense pride himself, was doing his best but just couldn't cope with his more agile and more active adversary. Wilt wound up with only 10 points and 17 rebounds before being benched with 5:40 left.

The Lakers played far better than they did on Wednesday, but the Warriors made good their pre-series boast that they could run the legs off their older opponents.

After a close first period, San Francisco sprinted ahead 64-53 at halftime and led the rest of the way. Only in spurts did the Lakers ever get their running game going and virtually every player was guilty of "standing around."

The only exception, perhaps, was Jerry West. He matched Wednesday's output with 36 points, but he was asked to play 47 minutes and West just can't go that long anymore. Tired in the final period, Jerry missed four of six shots.

There were three other key figures in the game, Warriors Rudy LaRusso and Jim King and Laker Elgin Baylor.

LaRusso, who outplayed Baylor on Wednesday, outscrapped the all-pro forward again with 29 points and 17 rebounds to only 20 points and 6 rebounds for the Laker captain.

The Lakers worked diligently and "held" Jeff Mullins to 20 points, but they had to leave King open to do it. It was a drastic mistake.

Only two weeks out of a hospital bed, King played what coach George Lee called his best game in two years. The six-year pro from Tulsa tried seven shots in the second half and made them all, to finish with 18 points.

King also gives the sometimes erratic Warriors purpose and direction. As a good floor leader, he doesn't allow them to take bad shots.

The Lakers hit only 39 per cent, the worst offender being Mel Counts. The gangling 7-footer hustled for his open shots but made only 6 of 26.

San Francisco's lead was pared from 14 points to four, 88-84, early in the fourth period, but King hit from 18 feet, Thurmond added three points and then LaRusso sank a foul shot. After Baylor scored, King, Mullins and LaRusso countered and it was a rout.

West's only two baskets of the period gave San Francisco a minor scare, but its lead never was less than seven.

Coach Bill van Breda Kolff credited San Francisco with "playing well" but he thought his club "lost" the game. "The Warriors didn't win it."

The series shifts to Oakland on Monday, then to the Cow Palace on Wednesday.

An odd situation is taking shape. Two years ago the Warriors swept four from the Lakers, and last season the reverse was true. The trend this time isn't too comforting for the division champions.

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Conservative trends set in during this coming year. The earlier in the year you begin, the better. This is an excellent time to establish a permanent base of operations. Today's natives usually take some active share in the maintenance of public affairs. They have a special capacity for attracting cooperation from people with whom they hold deep emotional ties.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Self-restraint today will save you quite a lot of trouble later with inmates. The temptation is to get into a tumbler series of expenses by acting on a whim. One thing costs too much and requires a second and expensive supplemental piece. Save your money for a better opportunity.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your wastefulness should be well supported to day. It is on your luck today, so to speak, that you live and prosper. In community meetings after dark, business matters are better left out of today's considerations — you need the rest, and the goodnight is more important.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): More details and errands develop than you had planned on. Otherwise, it's a day for family visits. Just don't go in such a dash that you tire and provide legends. Keep a watchful eye on any youngsters.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): Today holds considerable material value. During the day you may come to an agreement with somebody who can later come a dear for you. It is important to build human relationships first and all other things second.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 22): Your peak of emotional confidence, and it begins to translate into improved potentials. The people you please socially and intellectually today tend to bring you earnings opportunities later!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You are on the verge of very helpful self-discovery now. Meditation during the afternoon opens some surprising insights if you have the peace and courage to accept these gifts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Following up on past changes and incidents, most of them nice, your friends bring you many more surprises. Something happens that validates your basic faith in human nature, perhaps a slight incident with a deep sentiment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Keeping only your reference about discussing what you have. This evening wind up chronic problems. This could also mean thinking ahead on medical or dental check-ups.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Changes show up in your home and you need to watch closely for details nobody here you about. There is both a strong temptation to mix into everybody's affairs and the urge to have them out of yours.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): There are always ways and means of preserving what you have. This evening wind up chronic problems. This could also mean thinking ahead on medical or dental check-ups.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Now that you have a good chance of developing your partnership or marriage into something more fulfilling, it is time to grow into the deeper potential human being. Think and feel peace and calm and dignity. Others will react.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your associates now offer all sorts of comfort and perhaps a word of belated praise. It is in the good spirit intended, and better them for a little celebration.

Information on the preemptions and scheduled programs dribbles in to Hollywood offices from the east and while all the networks will be making air time for reports on Eisenhower, these scheduled programs were immediately available:

CBS WILL preempt "Mannix" at 10 tonight

A program "Foreign Friends of Eisenhower" at 7 p.m., will preempt "Lassie" and "Gentle Ben," on Ch. 2.

ABC (Ch. 7) at 8 a.m. today will broadcast a half hour program covering the motorcade bringing the General's casket to Washington National Cathedral.

On Sunday from 8 to 11 a.m., the procession in which the ex-President's casket will be carried from the Cathedral to the Capitol Rotunda will be telecast, including President Nixon's eulogy.

Services on Monday at the Washington National Cathedral and removal of the casket to a train for Abilene, Kan., will be carried from 10 a.m. to noon.

On Wednesday, ABC will cover services and interment to take place in Abilene at an 8 to 9:30 a.m. telecast.

RADIO NOTES: KNAC (FM 105.5) has started a new weekend program for boating and fishing buffs.

'Sleep-in' Lennon Vows Beatles Will Perform

LONDON (AP) — John Lennon spoke from the downy depths of his double bed in an Amsterdam hotel Friday to assure the world it had not seen the last of the Beatles in the flesh.

Interrupting for a moment his seven-day, seven-night "sleep-in" with his Japanese wife, Yoko Ono, Lennon took issue with drummer Ringo Starr's statement in an interview that the group would never appear again in public.

"We've already been chattering about it among ourselves," said Lennon over the telephone to London. "But I've a sneaky feeling Ringo wasn't there at the time. He was off making this film, you know."

MOVIE GUIDE

As a guide to moviegoers, this newspaper lists capsule contents of major motion pictures playing the Long Beach area. Most classifications represent the judgment of the National Organization.

ANGEL IN MY POCKET — A homespun comedy about a minister in his first church (Andy Griffith), who breaks up the feud between two families which has impeded a small town's progress for 60 years. (G)

THREE IN THE ATTIC

— To punish a campus Don Juan for promiscuity and faithlessness, three college girls lock him in a dormitory attic and force him to make love around the clock. Stars Christopher Jones, Yvette Mimieux. (M)

CHARRO — Elvis Presley stars as a gunman who, after going straight, is forced back into the world of outlaws. With Ina Ballin, Lynn Kellogg, Solomon Sturges. (M)

100 RIFLES — Unusual tale of the Mexican government's attempt in 1912 to annihilate the Yaqui Indians. Jim Brown, Raquel Welch, Burt Reynolds and Fernando Lamas top cast. (M)

THE DIRTY DOZEN — Reissue of violent World War II adventure about Army convicts released to perform a dangerous mission, led by Lee Marvin. (M)

ROMEO AND JULIET — Expertly directed beautifully filmed version of the Shakespeare classic about young lovers caught in a family feud. (G)

Foster's Concerts Fascinating

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

Lawrence Foster's three Pavilion concerts with the Los Angeles Philharmonic this weekend present an unhackneyed and fascinating orchestral first-half, an acclaimed contest-winning pianist playing a thrice-familiar concerto in a very strange way for its second-half, and some of the orchestra's smoothest performances of this season.

The young conductor, who served for three seasons as assistant to Mehta here, and now holds the post of Permanent Guest Conductor with London's Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, always seems to be welcome on this podium. The orchestra plays a little better, tries a little harder, stays more aware, when he leads it, than when certain other guests do so.

WE WERE not surprised, then, when Thursday night the Philharmonic played some scrumptious Haydn, a neat first Pavilion performance of Charles Ives' "Three Places in New England," and a really polished accompaniment for Misha Dichter's uninvolved, rather antiseptic, playing of Rachmaninoff's Second Piano Concerto.

Haydn — the Symphony No. 99 — was best, perhaps because the piece is best, perhaps because conductor and orchestra achieved such a fluent, immaculate reading, one relaxed but directional, sonful yet elegant.

Ives' New England suite might have held the overflowing audience's attention better had Foster concentrated more on its arresting details than on its colorful sound profile. Without the delineation of details, the three pieces tend to blur impressionistically on the ear. We were grateful, in any case, for the Philharmonic's overdue revival of this historical work; they last played it in 1932!

NOT UNTIL several hours after the Thursday concert did I realize what probably prompted Foster to begin his program with Anton von Webern's transcription of the Six-part Ricercar from Bach's "Musical Offering." It is in C minor, the homonymous signature of the evening's closing work, the Rachmaninoff Concerto.

Otherwise, there would have been no logical reason to program it. Key-wise, again, it introduces the E-flat Haydn Symphony appropriately, if not temperamental. And though, on paper, it looks like an historical novelty, the transcription itself makes a very weak opener on an orchestral program.

'Sleep-in' Lennon Vows Beatles Will Perform

LONDON (AP) — John Lennon spoke from the downy depths of his double bed in an Amsterdam hotel Friday to assure the world it had not seen the last of the Beatles in the flesh.

Interrupting for a moment his seven-day, seven-night "sleep-in" with his Japanese wife, Yoko Ono, Lennon took issue with drummer Ringo Starr's statement in an interview that the group would never appear again in public.

"We've already been chatting about it among ourselves," said Lennon over the telephone to London. "But I've a sneaky feeling Ringo wasn't there at the time. He was off making this film, you know."

MOVIE GUIDE

As a guide to moviegoers, this newspaper lists capsule contents of major motion pictures playing the Long Beach area. Most classifications represent the judgment of the National Organizations.

ANGEL IN MY POCKET — A homespun comedy about a minister in his first church (Andy Griffith), who breaks up the feud between two families which has impeded a small town's progress for 60 years. (G)

THREE IN THE ATTIC — To punish a campus Don Juan for promiscuity and faithlessness, three college girls lock him in a dormitory attic and force him to make love around the clock. Stars Christopher Jones, Yvette Mimieux. (M)

CHARRO — Elvis Presley stars as a gunman who, after going straight, is forced back into the world of outlaws. With Ina Ballin, Lynn Kellogg, Solomon Sturges. (M)

100 RIFLES — Unusual tale of the Mexican government's attempt in 1912 to annihilate the Yaqui Indians. Jim Brown, Raquel Welch, Burt Reynolds and Fernando Lamas top cast. (M)

THE DIRTY DOZEN — Reissue of violent World War II adventure about Army convicts released to perform a dangerous mission, led by Lee Marvin. (M)

ROMEO AND JULIET — Expertly directed beautifully filmed version of the Shakespeare classic about young lovers caught in a family feud. (G)

Foster's Concerts Fascinating

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

Lawrence Foster's three Pavilion concerts with the Los Angeles Philharmonic this weekend present an unhackneyed and fascinating orchestral first-half, an acclaimed contest-winning pianist playing a thrice-familiar concerto in a very strange way for its second-half, and some of the orchestra's smoothest performances of this season.

The young conductor, who served for three seasons as assistant to Mehta here, and now holds the post of Permanent Guest Conductor with London's Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, always seems to be welcome on this podium. The orchestra plays a little better, tries a little harder, stays more aware, when he leads it, than when certain other guests do so.

WE WERE not surprised, then, when Thursday night the Philharmonic played some scrumptious Haydn, a neat first Pavilion performance of Charles Ives' "Three Places in New England," and a really polished accompaniment for Misha Dichter's uninvolved, rather antiseptic, playing of Rachmaninoff's Second Piano Concerto.

Haydn — the Symphony No. 99 — was best, perhaps because the piece is best, perhaps because conductor and orchestra achieved such a fluent, immaculate reading, one relaxed but directional, songful but elegant.

Ives' New England suite might have held the overflowing audience's attention better had Foster concentrated more on its arresting details than on its colorful sound profile. Without the delineation of details, the three pieces tend to blur impressionistically on the ear. We were grateful, in any case, for the Philharmonic's overdue revival of this historical work; they last played it in 1932!

NOT UNTIL several hours after the Thursday concert did I realize what probably prompted Foster to begin his program with Anton von Webern's transcription of the Six-part Ricercar from Bach's "Musical Offering." It is in C minor, the homonymous signature of the evening's closing work, the Rachmaninoff Concerto.

Otherwise, there would have been no logical reason to program it. Key-wise, again, it introduces the E-flat Haydn Symphony appropriately, if not temperamentally. And though, on paper, it looks like an historical novelty, the transcription itself makes a very weak opener on an orchestral program.
